Dr. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS,
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 26th, 1881. 3104 Wash. Avenue.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

DESTROYING DAMS.

A British Expedition in Boats to Clear the Canal.

Wolseley to the Front—Sufferings of the Horses—The Prisoners—The Egyptian War.

KASSASIN, September 12.—The campaign has demonstrated the vast superiority of shrapnel over the Krupp percussion shells. The English fired without haste, as the consumption of ammunition by the rifles averaged eight rounds per man. The British soldiers showed great humanity to the wounded Egyptians. Many gave away their water bottles which, under such a sun, were a prime necessity for their own use. The prisoners all expected instant death.

TURKEY AND ENGLAND.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 12.—The Grand Council summoned yesterday to discuss the relations between Turkey and England decided that the military convention must clearly indicate the landing place of the Turkish troops in Egypt.

HORSES SUFFERING.

KASSASIN, September 12.—The Indian cavalry horses are suffering from glanders, owing to the fall of the fresh water canal. The launches are unable to proceed.

BOAT EXPEDITION.

ISMAILIA, September 12.—Boats have gone up the Freshwater Canal through Kassassin locks to blow up the dams constructed by the enemy.

WOLSELEY.

KASSASIN, September 12.—Gen. Wolseley has left the camp in order to arrange for an attack. All the forces have now arrived.

AN AMERICAN OFFICER.

ALEXANDRIA, September 12.—Lieutenant Commander Caspar F. Goodrich, the American officer detailed to accompany the English army in the Egyptian campaign, arrived here and will report to Sir Garnet Wolseley the first opportunity.

WOLSELEY RECONNOITERS.

KASSASSIN, September 12.—Gen. Wolseley made a personal reconnoissance this morning. He was accompanied by the Duke of Connaught and Gens. Lowe, Wills and Wilkerson. He returned after gaining a clear idea of the enemy's position. This is the last reconnoissance before the battle.

The Morning Budget.

LONDON, September 12.—Arabi Pasha has been at Tel el Kebir since the 25th of August. One hundred English ships used the Suez Canal between August 20 and September 6. The revenue to the company amounts to £96,000. The statue of Ibriham Pasha, grandfather of the Khedive, has been destroyed at Cairo, the ulemas declaring statues contrary to their religion. The British loss in Saturday's engagement was four killed and sixty wounded. The army is impatient to advance. There are 240 sick and wounded at Comaha and 201 aboard the hospital ship Carthage. It is now known that had the English followed up their success on Saturday they could easily have captured the enemy's position. In fact General Butler was in consultation with General Lowe, about to make a cavalry charge on Zagazig, when Wolseley ordered the return to Kassassin. The sincerity of the four officers who surrendered is doubted. Their surrender is believed to be a ruse. The transport Serapis left Portsmouth for Alexandria with 1,722 officers and men, First Battalion Buff and First Battalion Dorsetshire Regiments. The Rothschilds presented to the English army in Egypt twelve tons of tobacco and 5,000 pipes, which the Khedive allowed to enter duty free. Lieut.-Commander Goodrich, of the U. S. Navy, is at Alexandria en route to join Gen. Wolseley. Financiers estimate that Egypt will lose £70,000,000 by the war. The cotton crop alone, which is entirely lost, is worth £40,000,000. The sugar crop will also be lost, and if the country is not in a settled condition within the next two months it will be too late for sowing next year's cereals. There has been called a grand council at Constantinople, to deliberate upon the relation of Turkey with England after the issue of the proclamation against Arabi Pacha. The Sultan, as a mark of approval, has increased Said Pasha's salary £500 monthly. Lord Dufferin has complained of the fresh arrest of laborers engaged in the service of the English army in Egypt.

SHOT BY HIS SON.

A Family Quarrel Terminating in a Tragedy.

CHICAGO, September 12.—A Lewiston, Ill., special says: James A. Arnett, a prominent farmer, quarreled with his wife and son, Jacob, about his (Arnett's) scandalous relations with a young widow, and as the scuffle was proceeding the younger son, Cyrus, rushed in with a revolver and shot Arnett fatally. Arnett is still alive.

Louisville's Celebration.

LOUISVILLE, KY., September 12. — This city to-day celebrated the completion of several new railroads on a grand scale. Business is entirely suspended and all Louisville, with not less than 200,000 strangers, crowd the streets along which the great procession passed. The display of home industries is immense. The Fire and Police Department and military display was the grandest ever witnessed. The south parade was over ten miles in length and three hours passing a given point. The city is covered with flags and flowers and the occasion is given up to a holiday. During the parade twenty balloons were sent up from Oak Hall. During the afternoon people flocked by thousands to the Fair Grounds to witness the day's trotting and other events. A big display of fireworks on the river this evening will finish Louisville's greatest celebration.

Kansas Crops.

CHICAGO, September 12.—A Topeka special says the State Board of Agriculture's new computation of the oats and spring wheat yield states the oats average yield is estimated at 35 bushels per acre, the acreage over half million, increase 54 per cent; total product 18,300,000 bushels The greatest previous crop was in 1879, when with 29 per cent. larger acreage the yield was only fifteen millions. Only 137,000 acres of sown spring wheat and estimated to yield 15 bushels to the acre. The acreage of this grain has declined heavily, it being comparatively an unprofitable crop. The estimated corn crop remains 155,000,000 bushels. No unfavorable reports have been received and the yield will be about 35 bushels per acre.

ATTACKING MONOPOLY.

A New and Curious Venture Started in New York State.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, September 12. — The Sons of Columbia, a secret order, claiming a membership throughout the country of 800,000, of whom 88,000 are in New York State, started a line of steamers between this point and Poughkeepsie. The passenger fare to and from Poughkeepsie or any intermediate point will be ten cents, and freights will be carried at proportionately low rates. This enterprise is designed to test how low fares for water transportation can safely be made, and whether there is any such thing as monopoly, as applied to docks and landings. The steamers will land at any wharf where business demands, the managers claiming the right to land at any wharf that forms connection between the river and any public highway, upon paying wharfage. The Sons of Columbia say this is the commencement of a studied attack upon monopoly. Within two days another line will be put on between Albany and New York, to run until the close of navigation. The rate of fare has not yet been positively determined by the council, but will probably be ten cents for any distance on the line, and a freight rate of $1 per ton. One of the managers said to-day: "If these experiments this fall prove successful, we shall, as soon as navigation closes, organize two more such systems—one a line of steamboats to ply on the Mississippi River from New Orleans to the head of navigation, the other from Buffalo to the upper lakes. What rates of fare and freights will be charged upon them we cannot of course say now, as they will depend upon much nice calculation of expense and the advice of experienced practical men who are working with us, but they will be but at percentage upon the present charges."

The Superintendent of Police says the gambling houses must be closed and their illegal business stopped.

SUSPENDED.

A Richmond Banking Firm Closes its Doors—Uneasy Feeling.

RICHMOND, VA., September 12. — The Richmond Banking and Insurance Company this morning posted at the counter the following notice: "The president and board of directors are compelled to suspend business for the present. Trustees will be appointed and it is believed depositors will receive dollar for dollar.

[Signed] "JOHN B. DAVIS, President."

The bank officers state the cause of suspension is due to large depositors recently withdrawing funds, which action so materially contracted and embarrassed the business that they were forced to the step taken. The intimate relations between this bank and the Planters' National Bank (Davis being president of both) has created an uneasy feeling among the depositors in the latter, causing small depositors to withdraw their funds. Business men having large deposits are rallying to its aid. The directors of the Planters' National Bank were in session all last night examining its condition, and at 5 o'clock this morning Charles E. Whitlock and James B. Pace, the two wealthiest men in the city, were elected directors. John B. Davis then resigned the presidency and Chas. E. Whitlock was elected president.

Milwaukee's Finances.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., September 12.—The City Comptroller discovered to-day that the funds for five of the thirteen wards are completely exhausted, so that the most necessary public works, like repairs and cleaning of the streets in these wards, have to be suspended until next year. By a mistake of the former Comptroller, no money is appropriated in this year's budget for the interest on the public debt payable July and December, 1883, as prescribed by law, and the interest for July of this year has not yet been paid. The financial difficulties are the result of an insufficient rate of taxation and mismanagement of the former Comptroller in allowing the funds to be overdrawn. City officials make strenuous efforts to withhold the facts from the public. A remedy cannot be had until the next Legislature convenes, when application will be made authorizing Council to levy $700,000 additional tax, besides the regular budget already passed upon.

Arkansas Lawlessness.

CINCINNATI, September 12.—A Fayetteville, Ark., dispatch says a terrible state of lawlessness exists in the northern part of that county. Recently a United States Marshal and posse, attempting to arrest two or three bad characters at the house of Jeff Gilliland, were fired on and two of them wounded. Since then members of the posse have been fired on mysteriously and they are in constant fear. Last night an old emigrant, camped on the roadside with two little boys, was shot dead by Jim Webb without provocation. Since then the citizens have become fully aroused, and the Sheriff with a posse of 200 men is scouring the country. Two men have been arrested, but Webb has not yet been found.

Indications.

WASHINGTON, September 12.—For the Ohio Valley and Tennessee—Fair weather, variable winds, shifting to east and south, stationary followed by falling barometer, stationary or higher temperature. Lower Lake Region—Fair weather, winds shifting to southerly, lower barometer, stationary or higher temperature. Upper Lake Region and Upper Mississippi Valley—Fair weather, lower barometer, stationary or higher temperature. Missouri Valley—Fair weather, southerly, veering to north or west winds, falling, followed by rising barometer, stationary or lower temperature.

Suicide.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CEDAR CITY, MO., September 12.—The people of this place were shocked this morning by the supposed suicide of one John Will, a workhand. He was found dead this morning with a pistol in his hand near Dr. Tarleon's residence, two miles west of here. Cause unknown. The Coroner's inquest this evening may develope the cause.

Attempted Train Robbery.

CHICAGO, September 12.—A Parsons, Kas., special says reports have been received of an unsuccesful attempt to rob the north bound Missouri Pacific train in the Indian Territory, about midnight. In the encounter Conductor Chick Warner was shot, probably fatally. Warner killed one robber.

Through the Heart.

COLUMBUS, O., September 12.—George W. Hott, a young farmer residing near Georgesville, suicided this morning, shooting himself through the heart. Cause, financial troubles.

THE CASH VERDICT.

Stories About Influencing the Star Route Jury.

Political News From All Parts—Washington Notes—Gossip.

The Star Route Verdict.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 12.—The verdict in the Star Route trial was a great surprise here. At no time, it seems, were there more than three persons on the jury in favor of an acquittal. These three men were Brown and Holmead, the two negroes, and the foreman, Wm. Dickson. These three voted to acquit Stephen W. Dorsey. Only two voted to acquit Brady, Foreman Dickson and Brown. John W. Dorsey had two friends, Brown and Holmead, and Vaile escaped by a single vote, that of Holmead, the vote standing 11 to 1 for conviction. A singular story is told by one of the jurors respecting this vote. Holmead voted to convict Brady, but, finding it impossible to make the jury a unit on this issue, he said he did not believe in convicting all the small fry and letting the big fish escape, and so he voted for Vaile to the last. Holmead in this position finds many supporters.

A prominent member of the bar, in looking over the votes of the jurors, said: "There was no logic whatever in the vote of four of the jurors; eight stood systematically by and expressed a decided opinion, while four of the jurors, Dickson, Brown, Holmead and Martin, seem to shave charged their votes to suit the exigencies of the occasion and preconcerted with one another. Having all of them voted that there was no conspiracy, they subsequently, by some accident or other, voted Miner and Rerdell into a conspiracy, which they had previously voted did not exist, and it is perfectly apparent from the balloting that these four men, in their votes, were regulated by the genius and experience of some one familiar with political ballots designed to produce some previously determined result. It is possible this may have been done by the uninformed negro named Brown, but public opinion generally ascribes it to the astute politician and recognized friend of the Board of Public Works, and friend of S. W. Dorsey, namely, Mr. William Dickson." Mr. Kerr, one of two representatives of the prosecution now in Washington, says: "There is not a particle of truth in the statement that Dickson was ever approached by any man on behalf of the Government or by authority of the Attorney-General or his subordinates, Capt. Tidball and Mr. Bowen are in Arizona attending to Government business, and Cameron is in California, and it will require nearly two weeks to bring these gentlemen to Washington. In the meantime Dickson makes his assertions knowing that the gentlemen whose names he mentions are out of the city. A little reflection will show the absurdity of his story. Why did they select him as a man not likely to do his duty? Why did he not instantly resent such an offer? Why did he not go to the Attorney-General and complain about it? Why did he not procure a warrant for their arrest? Why did he use this as an argument to induce the other jurors to vote with him for acquittal, and why did he vote for acquital of the leaders of this conspiracy in the face of direct and positive testimony and the equally direct and positive charge of an honest and upright Judge? The matter will not end here. It will be fully and thoroughly investigated, and Dickson will have an opportunity of making good his charges or subjecting himself to the consequences."

Foreman Dickson's Defense.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 12.—Dickson's attention having been called to a published interview with Merrick in which he made remarks reflecting upon his integrity, Dickson replied: "Well, it may suit Merrick to fret and fume and say unkind and unjust things about men who were sworn to perform their duty and performed that trust in a fearless and conscientious manner according to their honest convictions of the law and evidence, but if he will turn his attention to the Department of Justice, of which he is now an officer, and purify that institution and aim in exposing the attempted bribery charges and the corrupt practices of his subordinates, he will do the Government good service. No one has a higher appreciation of Merrick than I have, and I have ever prized his friendship, and doubt if he is aware of the damnable transactions which have occurred since the commencement of the Star Route cases. A system of espionage was established by the Department of Justice, and in that employ were a number of disreputable persons, prominent among them a man under indictment for robbery and a self-confessed participant in three-card monte cases lately punished in our court by the conviction of men against whom this party turned State's evidence. The jurors were followed and decoys of various kinds adopted to ensnare them into the commission of a wrong act. Efforts were frequently made to draw them into conversation upon the merits of the case. I have a number of anonymous letters, and marked papers were daily sent me, all containing matter intended to influence my mind. When the regular panel was exhausted extra talesmen were summoned, and two gentlemen, Messrs. Murray and Tobriner, were selected to complete the jury, and at once these men were denounced, their characters assailed, and it was openly charged and published that they were paid agents of the defendants. I demanded of one gentleman, Mr. Murray, a full explanation, and on on learning the facts of how he came to be drawn by the Marshal as a talesman, felt satisfied that he was innocent of the slanderous charge, and I insisted that Judge Wylie's attention should be called to the matter, and I did so. You will remember the Judge severely criticised the course pursued by the newspapers and defended the jury from the imputations cast upon them. Malicious lies were circulated and published about the jury being seen lunching with the defendants and drinking at their expense, all of which were false. Intimidations of every character were resorted to and systematic attempts made to terrorize the jury by threatening them. Some of them were charged with drunkenness. One of them, Holmead, informed me early in the proceedings that a lawyer named Falls had interviewed him, telling him he was an officer of the Department of Justice and had desired him to ascertain by watching my notes as I jotted down the salient points of the testimony and report to him their import. He told Holmead he was authorized to act by the Attorney-General, and was assigned to look after him; that it was a question whether Judge Freeman or Falls should be delegated to take care of Holmead and finally it was decided to appoint Falls. He urged Holmead to act with him and aid him with information, and said it would result in his (Falls') advancement and that Holmead would lose nothing by it. I cautioned Holmead when he told me in June to pay no attention to Falls or any one who attempted to mislead him. Falls repeated his visit to Holmead at intervals, and renewed his efforts to inveigle him until Holmead threatened to kick him out of his store. Our places of business were invaded by "spotters," our employes were solicited to tell who we conversed with, and what our sentiments were on the subject, and our wives were not safe from interviewers and overzealous agents. The first personal knowledge I had of the presence of a 'jury fixer' was when Henry A. Brown made a proposition to me to convict the defendant, and promised me $2,500 His cool audacity was charming, and he unhesitatingly exhibited to me his letters of appointment of special agent to the Department of Justice.

The New Hampshire Republicans.

CONCORD, N. H., September 12.—The Republican State Convention met at noon, Chester B. Jordan presiding. After the appointment of committees the convention proceeded to ballot for a candidate for Governor. The first ballot was as follows: whole number cast, 634; necessary to a choice, 318; Moody Currier, 291; Samuel W. Hale, 297; scattering, 16. No choice. Second ballot: Currier, 291; Hale, 305; scattering, 41. No choice. Third ballot: Currier, 288; Hale, 310; scattering, 35. No choice.

The fourth ballot resulted as follows: Currier, 276; Hale, 324; scattering, 20. Samuel W. Hale was declared nominated, and the nomination was made unanimous.

Inspectors Appointed.

WASHINGTON, September 12.—The Acting Secretary of the Treasury to-day gave orders for the establishment of a local board of inspectors of steam vessels at gallipolis, Ohio. Frederick Ford, formerly Assistant Inspector of Hulls at Wheeling, W. Va., and Lansing V. Applegate, formerly Assistant Inspector of Boilers at Cincinnati, have been appointed members of the new board and instructed to proceed to Gallipolis an once and establish an office there.

Oregon Legislature.

CHICAGO, September 12.—A Portland, Oregon, special says the Legislature met at Salem yesterday. Both houses organized. W. J. McConnell was chosen president of the Senate, and Geo. W. McBride Speaker of the House. The organization of the Senate is unfavorable to Mitchell's Senatorial aspirations, but the opposition to him is not united on candidates.

Anti-Prohibition.

CHICAGO, September 12.—An Omaha special says the State Anti-Prohibitionists met here yesterday, with a large attendance. Resolutions were adopted against voting for Prohibition candidates, and requiring all who receive the support of the convention to give a pledge to work against Prohibition.

New York Labor Convention.

BUFFALO, September 12.—At noon the State Labor Convention assembled to decide whether a Labor ticket should be put in the field. Joseph C. Barry was elected temporary chairman and a recess taken.

Maine Legislature.

PORTLAND, September 12.—The Daily Advertiser makes a careful estimate of the Legislature as follows: Senate—Republicans, 28; Fusion, 3. House—Republicans, 87, Fusion, 64.

Pittsburg Post-Office.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 12.—In their report of the Pittsburg office the Post-office Examining Commission state the office is very badly arranged, very dingy and crowded, but with a few improvements, which are recommended, considerable additional room can be given to the mailing and city divisions of the office. The reorganization of the clerical force as recommended gives the office eight new clerks and increases the pay of eight others, making a total increase of $6,520. It also recommends the abolition of one place and reduction in the pay of six others, making a total saving of $2,110. The commission say the working of the office is as good as can be expected in such miserable quarters. Work on the new Government building progresses slowly, the foundation not being laid yet.

A Terrible Wreck.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., September 12.—A line schooner, name unknown, anchored last night off Rye, N. H., on fire. Only a portion of the crew was able to get ashore, on account of the terrible seas. The remainder battered down the hatches and stayed on deck until driven by the heat to the rigging. A hole subsequently burned in her bottom and she sank in three fathoms of water. The life-saving station could do nothing for her relief. A volunteer boat's crew from the United States ship Vandalia have gone with a man-of-war's cutter in a tug boat to attempt the rescue of the men.

Searching for the Jeannette.

WASHINGTON, September 12.—Lieut. Harber writes from Yakutsk, June 22, as follows: "I hope to reach Ahut, called Matvai, near the center of the Lena Delta, about July 3. Here I will establish provision and at once commence search for people who were in Lieut. Chip's cutter. I propose now to make our first search to the westward of the depot, which will probably occupy the greater part of July. During August I will make search to the eastward as far as the Jana River, if necessary."

Fire Chiefs' Convention.

CINCINNATI, O., September 12.—The National Convention of Fire Chiefs of the United States and the Canadas met to-day, with 200 people in attendance. An address of welcome was made by Mayor Means, and was responded to by the president of the association, G. Watt Taylor, Chief of the Fire Department of Richmond, Va. Capt. Eyre M. Shaw, of the London (England) Fire Brigade, is here attending the convention. The session will continue three days.

Mills Burned.

CHICAGO, September 12.—The Denver Crescent Mills and Elevator burned this morning. Estimated loss, $225,000; insured. They were the largest in the State and were full of grain. It is thought the fire originated from a spark from a lime-kiln across the street which burned early in the evening.

For the Cable Company.

CHICAGO, September 12.—In the bill recently filed for an injunction to restrain the Chicago city railroad from running cable cars or laying cable track, Judge Gardner this morning made a sweeping decision in favor of the company on all points raised by the bill.

Failures.

NEW YORK, September 12.—The Post says: "At the Produce Exchange several failures of importance occurred to-day, on account of the decline in breadstuffs and provisions. Among these are Cecil Rowson and Richard Perrin."

Baltimore's "Oriole."

BALTIMORE, MD., September 12.—The sixty-eighth anniversary of the battle of North Point, which begins the annual Oriole festival, is being celebrated to-day with more than the usual ceremony and display.

CONEY ISLAND Clam Chowder at Milford's.

Creedmoor Shooting.

CREEDMOOR, September 12.—In the Judd match to-day, 200 yards, Capt. Goodsall, of the British team, took the first prize.

France.

PARIS, September 12.—The Russian actress Feyghite shot herself in the apartment of the Duc de Morney. She is in a precarious condition.

WHY SHE SHOT HERSELF.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, September 12.—Mademoiselle and the Duke had been on intimate terms for some time past, the former frequently visiting the apartments of the Duke and accompanying him to places of amusement and other resorts. It is said that the Duke had tired of the lady, and of late had shown a disposition to avoid her as much as possible, but she would not be shaken off, and learning that the Duke was in his apartments, she hastened thither with the avowed intention of demanding of him the reasons of his slighting her. A quarrel, it is believed, ensued, which resulted in Mlle. Feyghine drawing a pistol and shooting herself.

The Duke de Morney referred to in this telegram is a son of the dissolute Duke de Morney who was a disreputable feature of Napoleon the Third's bogus Empire. The father was currently believed to be the son of Queen Hortense and Count Flahault. He fought in the French army in Algiers with some distinction and while a member of the Chamber of Deputies aided in the coup d'etat. He served as Minister of the Interior, Ambassador to St. Petersburg and President of the Chamber of Deputies. He died in 1865. He was a man of considerable ability but was thoroughly corrupt and knavish. His son, who possesses none of his brains, is evidently following in his footsteps.

England.

LONDON, September 12.—The great Yorkshire handicap was won by Baliol, Reveller second and Princess Bladud third.

THE HILLSDALES.

LONDON, September 12.—Betting on the race between the Hillsdale crew and the crew of the Thames Rowing Club is 2 to 1 against the Hillsdales.

RACES

LONDON, September 12.—The Champagne Stakes was won by Hantoner, Macheath second, Chislehurst third.

The Dominion.

MONTREAL, September 12.—The City Corporation has decided to take charge of the bequest of $15,000 of Major Mills for distribution in bread to the poor.

PROF. JAS. A. SEWELL, of Medical Faculty, Laval University, Quebec, states: "I have found Colden's Liquid Beef Tonic particularly useful in advanced stages of Consumption, Weakness, Dyspepsia and all Nervous Afflictions. In pregnant women it has been retained while every other article of food was rejected. I can recommend it as convenient, palatable and easy of digestion." Ask for Colden's; take no other. Of druggists generally.

ABOUT TOWN.

THE School Board will meet this evening at 8 o'clock.

DR. JAS. A. CAMPBELL, of 1731 Morgan street, has returned to the city.

JUSTICE MCCANN married William Manning to Catherine Bauer at the Mayor's office to-day in the presence of a number of officials.

IN the First District Police Court to-day Gen. Amos Beckwith was fined $ 0 for using profane language towards Dan B. Hudson. The fine was paid.

A WABASH passenger coach and an Adams Express wagon collided at the Union Depot this morning. The damage done was only slight. No one was hurt.

JULIUS HAFNER and Casper Brinkman were to-day arrested on the charge of robbing Bernard Cramer, of Venice, Ill., of $250 in cash. The crime occurred last week.

MRS. ALWINA MEIER, a widow, has entered suit against her brother in-law, Adolphus Meier, to recover $3,000 on account of life insurance moneys collected in respect of a policy.

WE are fond of music, both in the abstract and concrete, but the negro band at the Grand Opera-house really ought to do its rehearsing out in the woods before invading the large cities.

MISS PEARL EYTINGE, the dramatic star who appears next Sunday night in "Brentwood," will occupy a private box at the People's Theater to-morrow evening, by invitation of Manager Robertson.

AT 7 o'clock yesterday evening fire was discovered in the house owned and occupied by J. M. French, at the southwest corner of Chippewa street and Grand avenue. Cause of the fire unknown and damage only amounted to $25.

SINCE last Thursday the closing hours at the Mercantile Club rooms have been changed from 10 30 p. m. to 12 o'clock to accommodate oystering members who may leave the theaters hungry and sufficiently well heeled to stand a spread for two.

COMMENCING September 12, all the Eastern trunk lines will adopt a continuous train ticket to all differential rate points. These tickets will be sold at the rates recently fixed by Commissioner Fink. Stop over tickets will be sold as before, but at a higher rate.

THE monthly meeting of the Retail Grocer's Association will be held at Turner Hall this evening at 8:30 o'clock. The Finance Committee will report the result of the recent picnic, and the employment book and "dead beat" list for the coming season will undergo revision.

IN another column our readers will find the statement of that highly prosperous and creditable institution, the Bank of Commerce. We need hardly say that the insertion in yesterday's issue attributed to the Continental Bank was a stupid blunder of the printer and proof-reader.

MR. JOHN ROBERTSON, the stenographer who took the testimony in the Windsor Hotel suit, is preparing a transcript, which will soon be complete. The entire document will comprise 600 pages of matter, printed with a type writer on foolscap paper and will contain about 150,000 words.

ROBERT MACALLISTER, who was for a long time in the City Engineer's office, has had some trouble with John Greener, who is employed in Harrison's Foundry, and the iron worker has threatened to tear Bob to pieces on sight. Robert has sworn out a peace warrant against him.

THE man known as Jack Lampert, who was arrested yesterday for malicious trespass, is said to be known as Jacob Bussey, and a gentleman who bears the name of Jacob Lampert is anxious to have the public know that his name was used without his consent, and that it is in no wise connected with the affair charged.

THE Montesano Springs Hotel is rapidly growing in public favor since the Association ridded itself of D. C. Siegrist, the manager. The hotel is now kept on a liberal plan. The fare is excellent and the best of attention is shown to guests. A month spent there now will prove most invigorating. St. Louis people should acquaint themselves with the comforts and conveniences of this commodious and convenient resort.

ONE CAPTURED.

One of the Robbers of the Eureka Stage Said to be Caught.

Gen. Edgarton, Chief of the Postal Special Service, received a telegram to-day from Eureka Springs announcing that it was reported one of the robbers of the Seligman mail at Beaver's Ferry had been captured, but from the nature and source of the information he could not vouch for it. A special officer leaves to-night to work upon the case.

SERIOUS RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

A Brakeman Killed and a Train of Cars Derailed and Ditched

An accident occurred on the Wabash Railroad East to-day at a small station named Honey Bend, which is about sixty miles east of St. Louis A freight train was derailed and twelve cars demolished. The wreck delayed passenger trains Nos. 41, 43 and 47 respectively two, four and five hours. A construction train was sent out to clear the track. A young brakeman named Peter McCallum was sent out along the track to flag the construction train when it came up. While waiting he fell asleep and was run over by the train. He was unmarried and had one brother living here, to whom he had a letter written and addressed when killed. The remains will be brought in and an inquest probably be held. Young McCallum is the son of Mr. Peter McCallum, a well-known employe of the Street Department of this city.

Persistent Priest.

John J. Priest was summoned to appear before Notary Valle yesterday to testify in his old Opera-house suit against the surviving partners of Ben DeBar. As he failed to appear an attachment was issued for him returnable this morning. At the appointed hour the Sheriff made his return to the effect that Mr. Priest left the city on Sunday evening and would be absent for a week. This leaves the question of his commitment for refusing to be sworn open for another week. Mr. Priest persistently disputes the authority of the Notary to compel him to testify.

Sharkey's Complaint.

Joseph Sharkey called at the POST-DISPATCH office this morning to enter complaint against Officer Bill Hess, of Rock Spring. Sharkey says that a day or two since, as he was about to enter a saloon, he invited the policeman in to take a drink, and and when the latter refused the offer he derided him good-naturedly, knowing, as he claims, that the officer was in the habit of taking a toddy. The officer got mad and pitching upon him beat him with his club until he was almost dead. Sharkey says that the officer knocked out three of his teeth with the butt of his revolver.

Return of Circuit Judges.

Judges Adams and Boyle have returned to town and for the remainder of the vacation will attend to such business in chambers of the Circuit Court as may call for urgent attention, relieving Judge Thayer, who has devoted himself to work in chambers throughout the summer. This morning there was a hearing before them respecting a motion of the Columbia Life Insurance Company's receiver in the Life Association estate, touching an order for payment of rent on account of the million dollar judgment lien. The matter is under advisement.

The Slops.

In answer to the question asked by a subscriber in yesterday's paper why the slops were not removed from a certain portion of Olive street, west of Thirtieth, Mr. Hardy, the contractor, states that slops are removed from Olive street, west of Jefferson avenue, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays's and that if they are not removed from certain houses it is because they are placed in boxes or barrels and hidden where they cannot be found by the drivers of the scavenger wagons.

BLACKS VS. WHITES.

Great Excitement in East St. Louis Over Mixed Schools.

Origin of the Trouble—The Schools Closed—Fights—The Colored People Insisting on Their Rights.

The white and colored portions of the population in East St. Louis are engaged in a serious strife, which has been brewing nearly a year, and came to a focus yesterday upon the opening of the public schools. The difficulty is on account of the opposition of the white citizens to admitting the colored children to the Public Schools, and threatens to terminate in an open rupture unless some conciliatory measure is adopted to-day. About a year ago an election was held to decide whether or not a colored school, not to cost over $7,000, should be built in East St. Louis. The vote decided in favor of making the purchase and the School Board instructed accordingly. Considerable difficulty was experienced in securing a site and petitions circulated among the citizens asking to locate the school in different parts of the city. The petitions were presented to the board and the one having the most names selected. The site was situated on Railroad street, near several railroad tracks, and was vigorously opposed by the colored citizens and several of their friends. The fight was carried into the School Board and engendered much bitter feeling among the members of the board, finally terminating by the location being approved. A long petition signed by all the colored people and a large number of white citizens and tax-payers was presented to the Board, requesting a reconsideration of the subject, but all to no effect. The Superintendent of Public Instruction was asked to interfere, but after fully considering the means employed in securing the site, decided that everything was legal and beyond his power of interference, but advised the board, for harmony's sake, to secure a more suitable location. The Treasurer of the schools refused to pay for the property and another long and bitter wrangle between the Treasurer and some of the Members of the Board of Education ensued. State Superintendent Slade settled that difficulty by deciding the Treasurer could not be compelled to turn over money out of the school fund unless an election was held and the question decided by the citizens. Neither could bonds be issued for the payment of the property unless the same means were adopted. Only a few weeks intervened between the time Supt. Slade rendered his decision and the opening of the public schools and an election was out of the question. The colored people threatened to send their children to the nearest public school unless suitable quarters were provided for them, but the long fight in the School Board prevented that body from meeting and providing for the colored children. The colored citizens held a mass meeting two weeks ago to consider the situation and invited the School Board to attend, but the invitation was not accepted It was resolved by the colored citizens to stand by one another in the fight and send their children to the nearest school, regardless of consequences Yesterday the schools opened, and a large attendance of colored children was noticeable at all the schools. But only two schools enrolled them upon application. Mr. Manners, of the middle school, refused to admit them till compelled, and then adjourned school. The parents of the children accompanied them and defied the large crowds of white citizens. The School Board would not interfere, but advised the teachers to close school shortly after opening to avoid trouble. This morning the colored citizens followed up the advantage gained yesterday and forced their children into all the schools. The parents of the white children refused to allow these to attend with their colored schoolmates and the result was the schools were almost entirely surrendered to the colored children. At the Middle School several white boys assaulted a number of colored children, and a little white boy was struck with a rock and seriously injured. The negro, whose name is Robinson, was arrested but shortly afterwards bailed out by a member of the School Board. The Franklin School opened with about ten white children and about thirty colored The principal, Mr. Ginthaus, offered no resistance and commenced the process of assigning the scholars to their respective places. Richard Long, first assistant, remonstrated against teaching in a room where all except two were colored, and finally left his class for the purpose of sending in his resignation. School was dismissed to avoid further trouble. At the Middle School the attendance of both races was about equal. Mr. Manners, principal, made a determined stand yesterday against admitting colored children, but finally succumbed to the inevitable. This morning several little white boys assaulted some colored children near the school and a pitched battle took place. The School Board held a consultation and decided to close all the schools for to-day. The "Shoo Fly" church, on Sixth street, in the Second Ward, was secured for the colored children, and is being fitted up for school purposes, but the colored people are determined not to accept it, and will send their children to the nearest school. In the meantime many of the white people are keeping their children from school. Both sides are determined to hold out for their rights, and it is impossible to predict how the matter will terminate.

THE STABLE FIEND.

Another Lot Purchased by the Well Known Russell.

Quite a commotion has been caused among the people residing in the vicinity of the junction of Compton and Washington avenues by the proposed erection upon the lot at the northeast corner of the streets mentioned of a livery stable. The houses in the locality referred to are all first-class residences and the owners and occupants of them feel that a livery stable right next door would be a genuine nuisance. The party proposing to build the stable is Mr. Russell, Sr. Russell is well known on account of a number of stables which he has at different times caused to be built on other of the best residence sections of the city. Several years ago his search for a lot upon which to build a stable was the occasion of a number of indignation meetings among the property-owners chiefly interested. Up to two weeks ago Russell was running a stable on the south side of Locust street, between Garrison and Ewing avenues, only a few doors east of the home of Mr. Hercules L. Dousman and directly across the street from Mr. Hugh L. McKittrick's residence. His removal from that neighborhood was necessitated by the purchase of the lot by Mr. Dousman for the sum of $10,000. Russell retains title to the stable and all the material which it contains. Since the sale to Dousman Russell has been searching for another eligible site for a stable. It is said that he made overtures for the purchase of a lot of ground on Grand avenue, lying directly between the Academy of the Sisters of St. Vincent and the residence of Mr. E. J. Cuendet. It is said that the deed of conveyance was made out and ready for delivery when Mr. Jesse L. January bought it for a larger sum than Russell had agreed to pay. Russell then renewed his search for a lot. His negotiations for the Girardi property, on Washington avenue just west of Grand avenue, have been ventilated in the papers. At length he pitched upon the lot at Compton and Washington avenues. This he purchased for $135 per front foot of Dr. C. H. Spencer, the well-known aurist, the ostensible purchaser being a Mr. J. Brooks Johnston, who is known in connection with transactions connected with the Gravois Railroad and Carondelet Gas stock. Dr. Spencer's neighbors are very indignant at his conduct, claiming that half a dozen of them stood ready to take the property off his hands at his own valuation. Messrs. Carroll, Dammock, Donaldson, Alleyne and others, who live in the block, were outspoken to the reporter in denouncing the sale. They claim that the proposal to build a livery-stable in their block is in reality a scheme to make money by frightening the neighbors into purchasing at a higher figure than that which the property originally sold for. Yesterday a public sale of the property was had according to announcements made by placards posted about the neighborhood. Notwithstanding the advertisement however, only three persons were present. These were Johnston and Russell and his son. Johnston started the bidding by offering $100 a front foot for what is ostensibly his own lot, and the three kept up the auction until the property was knocked down to Russell, Sr., for $190 per foot. Whether Russell will build or not depends, it is claimed, upon whether any of the property-owners surrounding his new purchase are ready to offer him satisfactory terms or not.

CITY PERSONALS.

Judge Amos M. Thayer yesterday donated $20 for the benefit of the Police Relief Fund.

Dr. James Wilhelm, of Cincinnati, is at the Laclede with his wife. The Doctor has been chasing the festive chicken over the plains of Kansas.

Her dresses are the most beautiful, her entertainments the grandest of all the grand dames of that fashionable city. Mrs. Paramore is said to be very proud of her striking resemblance to poor Adelaide Neilson."

WHERE IS HE?

Disappearance of T. De Witt Ganse, Son of the Well-Known Minister.

His Whereabouts Unknown to His Family or Friends—No Explanation for His Singular Action.

T. De Witt Ganse, a young gentleman very well known about town, is mysteriously missing. He is a son of Rev. H. D. Ganse, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. Young Ganse had an office on the northeast corner of Second and Locust streets. Just four weeks ago to-day he disappeared from the city and since that time nothing has been heard of his whereabouts. Letters and telegrams are piled up on his desk in considerable numbers, because nobody knows what to do with them. Ganse is probably thirty years of age and married. He is of dark complexion and wears black hair and whiskers, both of which he parts in the middle. He is a good singer, a jolly good fellow, and all his friends say about him is that he was very free with his money. Some time ago he was employed at the wholesale drug-house of Richardson & Co. as a buyer and as private secretary to Mr. Cliff. Richardson. When he left them he set up in business for himself, his sign reading: "T. De Witt Ganse, dealer in drugs, oils, etc." Messrs. Will Everetts and Wm. J. Fritch, who are also employed at Richardson's, were intimate friends of his, and Mr. Everetts says that he is at a loss to account for the matter. The latter gentleman was probably the last person who saw Mr. Ganse. Mr. Everetts lives in Alton, and four weeks ago yesterday he took Ganse home with him for the night.

Some of the young people of Alton are getting up an amateur performance of "Patience." Ganse, who has a very good voice, agreed to take the part of the Duke and rehearsed with the company that night. He came down the next morning, and since that time Mr. Everetts has not seen him. He thinks this very strange, inasmuch as Ganse was a very close friend of his, and would have written to him if he had to anybody. After waiting a couple of weeks the Patience cast was remade, causing considerable disappointment to those in charge, as the opera is to be give next week. Among other very intimate friends of Mr. Ganse are Messrs. George J. Parker, secretary of the Scarritt Furniture Company, and L. O. Haynes, chief book-keeper for Collector Whitney. Neither of them have had any tidings from him. Mr. Haynes had met him in Chicago several weeks ago and spent Sunday at Geneva Lake with him, but knew nothing of his present whereabouts.

It was rumored about that the cause of Mr. Ganse's sudden departure was that he owed considerable money. Allegations were made that he owed large sums to the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, to Wm. Washburn & Sons, at No. 410 Chamber of Commerce, to H. G. Linneman, a drug broker at 207 North Second street, and other persons.

Most of these statements, on investigation, proved false. Mr. Ganse has had only one transaction with the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, and then he paid cash. He has traded considerably with Washburn & Sons, but he owes them only $109 75, and the gentlemen are not at all alarmed about the amount. Mr. Linneman's debt is also small—not more than $25. This is all he owes, as far as can be learned, except that bills and statements amounting to possibly $100 have been handed in at his office against him since he disappeared. His friends do not think that the amount of money he owed could have caused his departure, since it was so small. About his only vice was gambling, but this was done in a small way. During the last race meeting at Cote Brilliante he was a regular attendant in the pool corner and backed his judgment very heavily, and usually with poor success. Since that time he has been following the horses, it is said, through the local pool rooms and has not been as lucky as he could wish. He has also done some gambling in other ways and has lost money. His friends do not imagine that he has met with any misfortune. They think that he has run behind in his business and has been neglecting it, and that, becoming disgusted, he has gone away. A reporter called at the residence of his father, Rev. Dr. Ganse, at 1413 Lucas place, where the young man has been living. In answer to a question, Dr. Ganse said: "I have heard nothing from him, and I know absolutely nothing about where he has gone. He has never communicated with me since he left."

Crumbs of the Courts.

A jury is sitting in the Probate Court this afternoon hearing evidence in the matter of Henry Meyer, whose brother alleges that he is incapable of taking care of his own affairs on account of confirmed habits of intemperance.

Joseph Weil filed suit to-day against Abraham Frank to recover $1,989 32 and $250 on account of a pro rata share of a judgment and expenses paid by plaintiff in the Kuhn litigation, growing out of the Massmann attachment proceedings.

Jacob Biffart was before United States Commissioner Selby, to-day, charged with embezzling a letter addressed to Mrs. Mary Biffar, containing a sum of money. The carrier delivered the letter to Biffart under the impression that it was intended for his wife.

Mary G. Williams seeks a decree of divorce from Caleb Williams. They were married August 1, 1869. Mrs. Williams alleges that her husband twice left her, but that she forgave him and they lived together again. Finally in April, 1881, he went away and has failed to return.

WISCONSIN WATER.

Ten Car Loads of Sheboygan Natural Mineral Water.

Messrs. Steinwender & Sellner, corner Third and Walnut streets, have made a contract with the Sheboygan Mineral Water Company for "ten car loads," which is believed to be the largest order ever given for an American natural mineral water. This popular water will soon be for sale at all the drug stores and is already placed in about two hundred and fifty first-class bars in the city. Steinwender & Sellner are sole agents for the entire State.

Board of Public Improvements.

The regular weekly meeting of the Board of Public Improvements took place this morning. Leave of absence for one week was granted to the Street Commissioner, subject to approval by the Mayor. The Acting Street Commissioner submitted a request that the Board designate by public notice a day on which it will consider the opening and improvement of a number of streets and alleys. September 28th was selected as the date. The Superintendent of the Work House notified the Board that he had appointed the following permanent guards: George Hasfurther, Abna Kendall, Francis McDowell, Randolph Rammelkamp, Adolph Weber, Henry Oster and A. P. Roetter. The appointments were approved by the Board.

Postponed.

The Chouteau Peck depositions, which were to have been resumed this morning, were postponed on account of the absence of certain witnesses. The plaintiffs propose to file a new notice and may go through the whole testimony again, it is said.

PRISON CRUELTIES.

How the Shower Bath is Employed in the Ohio Penitentiary.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

While the Governor of Ohio is tramping over the State and "pointing with pride" to "his administration," and painting in glowing colors the efficient and harmonious conduct of the State penal and benevolent institutions, it is an open secret in Republican circles that several of our State institutions are in a thoroughly disorganized and demoralized condition. For months the Central Insane Asylum has been without a head. The Superintendent, who has just returned, has been absent junketing over Europe, and this vast institution, with its population [illegible] human woe, has been in charge of a squab [illegible] a doctor who wears the nickname of "Booby" among the employes. The Ohio Reform School, near Lancaster, is rent and torn by internal dissensions, and has become useless as a reformatory. But the worst conducted and most demoralized of all is the Penitentiary. Every care and precaution has been taken to prevent the true condition of affairs from being learned by the outside world. The guards have been sworn to secrecy and repeatedly warned not to converse about prison affairs beyond the walls. Only such scraps of news are given to the press as suit the convenience of those in charge, and generally these are items that can not be well concealed. But even these fragments of news are not rare, and, coming as they do, they are a terrible index to the heartless reign of brutality that is within the prison walls. One day we are told that a desperate convict is kindly shot down while running, not at, but away from the guards; another convict is found dead in his cell, because he is so wicked that he doesn't want to live. Then with startling frequency comes the report of the maiming of prisoners by themselves. One man thrusts his hand under a punching machine, and holds it there until the member is destroyed; another tips a ladle of red-hot metal on his feet; men in the cooper-shop cut off their fingers; and where one of those deeds of desperation reaches the world a half dozen are concealed. Why do strong men deliberately prefer to suffer these tortures rather than work? It is because they are driven to desperation and madness by their task-masters, and are tortured by devilish punishments and cruelties to attempt labor beyond human endurance. The Ohio Penitentiary is not the property of the State. It is owned, controlled and directed by the contractors, who bribe, intimidate and dictate to the officers, guards and management, with but one single object in view, and that object is to wring every nickel possible from their slave property.

I have just had an interview with one of the guards, who is sick and disgusted with the scenes of brutality that occur almost daily. "I ought not to talk to you," he said, "and if my name becomes known I will be instantly discharged; but I feel that the people of Ohio ought to know about the disgraceful doings and the miserable management of the prison. It is degrading on all who have anything to do with it. I feel like a criminal myself, and to some extent have become hardened by the brutalizing associations."

"Is not Warden Thomas a good man?" I asked.

"He is a kind-hearted, windy and gushing sort of an individual, full of sentiment, but without any executive capacity. He is utterly unfit for the place. He keeps the prisoners in a state of sullen cussedness by his sentimental moods and broken promises. In a fit of goodness he will promise that the harsh punishments shall be suspended, and thus rise the hopes of the convicts, and those in charge, and Deputy Dean especially, will proceed to inflict more cruel punishment than ever. Dean and Deputy Warden Potter pay no attention to Thomas. Potter, in violation of law, punishes prisoners when the Warden or his First Deputy should do it. There is no discipline among the guards. They are all torn up into factions, some being partisans of Thomas, some of Dean, and some of Potter, and they all talk about and abuse each other. The board pays no attention to Thomas, and guards who have powerful backing get drunk with impunity."

"How are the men punished, and what for?"

"They are punished most frequently for not completing the daily tasks. Under the various contractors each man on the contract is required to do a certain amount of work—a certain number of pieces—and if they fail they are all reported and taken down and punished by the shower-bath in the morning. The shower-bath has been restored. It was not used for some time, but it has been introduced again. The men are stripped naked and placed in a trough, and a man holds the head and a heavy stream of water is turned into the face. Every time the poor devil gasps, opens his mouth or tries to breathe, he is strangled. The punishment is terrible and many men faint under it. This is why so many men maim themselves for life, preferring to be cripples rather than struggle at tasks they cannot perform, and then have to go through the shower. Of course, there are cases where men are wicked and obstinate and will not do the work, but there are many cases where it is a physical impossibility for the men to do the work, and no allowance is ever made for defective material or other causes. No time is deducted while the men are being punished, but they are marched back to the shops from the shower and set to work, and if they fail after their exhaustion they are again punished. This condition of affairs will continue as long as the State sells its criminals to contractors. Criminals have no rights that contractors are bound to respect. When a contractor buys a man's labor for so much a day he wants all he can get out of him."

A Mother's Cry for Her Child.

From the Baltimore Sun.

In the Criminal Court yesterday Judge Pinkney heard the petition of Mrs. Susan Wilback for a writ of habeas corpus to recover possession of her child, August Wilback, two years old, who, she alleged, was wrongfully detained by William Wilback, the father. The petition of Mrs. Wilback set forth that her husband had deserted her and was not a proper person to have custody of the child. Judge Pinkney said there was no evidence to show that the child was not properly cared for where it was, and it was only in extreme cases that courts would remove a child from the custody of the father, who was the legal guardian. He therefore dismissed the petition and remanded the child to the custody of its father. When the trial closed, the child, a bright and playful infant, was in the arms of its father, who started to carry it out of court. The mother appeared to be entirely unable to control her emotion, and her slight figure trembled from head to foot. Clasping her hands she followed the husband, crying: "Oh, my God, my God, give me back my child!" She was restrained by her friends, and bursting into tears, sank into a chair as the child was carried away.

A Cholera Scare at Newport.

Boston Special to Chicago Times.

The Journal's correspondent at Newport, R. I., telegraphs: A case of Asiatic cholera, it is reported, has occurred in this city, the seven-year-old child of Mr. Henry B. Auchincloss, of New York, having died of the disease. Dr. Fisher, who is occupying the Mason cottage on Church street, says that he has seen a thousand or more cases of cholera in Japan, and that this case was as purely one of Asiatic cholera as he had ever seen. Dr. Francis H. Rankin, formerly of New York, who has a large practice here and was the attending physician, states that the cause of the child's death was Asiatic cholera. Two or three other doctors were called in, among them Dr. Stover and Dr. Fisher. Still, people are reluctant to believe that it was a genuine case of the Asiatic cholera. Dr. Stover has for two or three years been an earnest advocate of a different Board of Health to that of the Board of Alderman, and has repeatedly called attention to alleged nuisances. On Tuesday there was a meeting of the Medical Society, and in a published communication they gave it as their opinion that Bellevue avenue, Kay and Catherine streets, which are the fashionable thoroughfares, were in a filthy condition. Dr. J. Peters, of New York, has published an extraordinary statement regarding the city sanitary condition, and when the local paper refused to publish any more he sent communications to Fall River and had them printed. There now appears to be a combined effort by the doctors to compel the Aldermen to place the Health Office in the hands of others. Many people think that the zeal of these doctors has got the better of their discretion, and that their decision should be received with caution.

Undertaker Langley, however, on the other hand, says the case is not nearly so bad as that of Mrs. Dodge, who died last Sunday near young Auchincloss. He says that she turned very rapidly after death, but it was called inflammation of the bowels. The Mayor has called an extraordinary meeting of the Board of Aldermen at 5 o'clock, and the city physician has been summoned. The parents of the child were away, and are now returning from New York to Newport. The child's remains have been placed in the upper story of the Mayor's cottage, which the Auchincloss family are occupying. It is stated that some time since there was a sanitary defect at the Mayor's cottage, but the statement is not verified.

A later dispatch states that the Board of Health, at a special meeting this afternoon, heard the statements of the three physicians to the effect that the child's disease was unmistakably Asiatic cholera. Dr. Rankin thought the immediate cause was swimming in foul water. The upshot of the meeting was that it was agreed that an application should be made to the City Solicitor for advice regarding the formation of a new board, to consist of practical men in sanitary matters. There is much feeling and some excitement.

The Sea Serpent Seen Again.

New York Special to Cincinnati Commercial.

The sea serpent has left his usual haunts on the south shore of Long Island and his later resorts on the Massachusetts coast, and made "positively his last appearance" for the season a day or two ago in the Kill Von Kull, near Point Richmond, Staten Island. J. Travis King and a nameless companion were the fortunate spectators on this occasion. That it was the same old snake is proved by the minute description given by Mr. King. "Its eyeballs glistened like fire," he says. They always do. It was of the usual length of forty feet. It appeared as always, when the water was calm and almost motionless. Of course it looked at a distance like a school of fish in Indian file. It approached the wharf, where the spectators were seated, and went through the familiar motions. First it rose to the surface and lay extended on top of the water motionless for a moment, then it raised its head three or four feet. It emitted the loud, hissing noise so well known to readers of sea serpent literature and disappeared after the lapse of one minute. All this is so familiar as to be even trite, but there is one unaccountable omission. Though it was so close that it could be readily seen that the eyes were green with small spots of red in the center, nothing is said about the mane. As it must have had a short, black mane, extending for three feet from the head, the incidental neglect to notice that fact will not interfere with a belief in the credibility of the witness.

The exhibitors of marine monsters, sharks and sea lions on the piers in the vicinity of Fulton Ferry are on the lookout for this new attraction, but it is not considered probable that the wily old serpent, after his long travels and appearances only at his own pleasure, will allow himself to be captured and made visible to vulgar eyes.

Josephine's Old Home.

Paris Letter to Chicago Tribune.

Although extremely dull in a social point of view, Paris never presented itself under a more seductive aspect than at present, with its shady gardens; its magnificent Bois de Boulogne, still in all the glory of its summer beauty; and, beyond the Bois, what a stretch of verdure and gorgeous bloom! But as we proceed along this charming route to Marly a melancholy note mingles with the songs of the birds, and a gloomy shadow of the past falls athwart our pathway, and we approach Malmaison, once the favorite residence of the Empress Josephine, and where in 1814 she died. Here we pause before the ruins in sombre meditation; for nowhere does the irony of human destiny appear more forcibly to the imagination than in the surroundings of this palace of the Bonapartes, all dismantled of its glory, and peopled only by the flitting shadows looming up in memory as history here unrolls itself before us—shadows of kings, and princes, and royal beauties—heroes of the empire, and statesmen and scholars. Mme. de Remusat is here making her piquant observations in the gay world around her, for the amusement and edification of the coming generation; and, as years roll on, the conquered Emperor comes to weep in yonder chamber, all hung with crimson velvet and golden stars—to weep in his sorrow and desolation over the wrongs he had inflicted on Josephine. But Malmaison is a ruin now, with little remaining to indicate its former grandeur. Continuing the route through this enchanting country these sombre reflections vanish, and even the great city, with its thronged boulevards and numerous attractions, for the moment is forgotten. For the boulevards are thronged and all the cafes of Paris filled, but not with Parisians; and, in fact, one might believe himself in England, Russia or any other country than France, as foreign languages are heard on every hand.

A Man With Fifty Children.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

Mr. Basingame, a prominent merchant from Social Circle, Ga., reports a remarkable case of vitality, which he says is well known to the people of his county. Near Social Circle resides a colored man named Harry Lackey, who has probably more descendants than any living man. He has been in the county so long that his own testimony on this question is corroborated by his neighbors. Harry is 90 years old, hale and hearty, one of the most industrious and highly respected negroes in the county. The other day he took unto himself a third wife, Susan Phillips, aged 61. He already has fifty children whom he acknowledges, and who call him by various terms of filial affection. Several of his children have died. In the presence of some gentlemen, the other day, he named over more than 300 of his grandchildren, and said there were others whom he could not then remember. One of his sons has thirty living children. Several of his sons count up more than a dozen children each. The old man is proud of his record and talks freely about it whenever questioned. He has always been an organized Democrat and is the only negro in his militia district who votes in the Democratic primary elections. He says he don't think his work is finished yet and has no idea of suspending business soon.

Our American Noses.

From the New York Evening Post.

In Mrs. Kemble's "Records" she says: "With us coarse-featured English, and our heavy-faced Teutonic kinsfolk, a thick outline and snub features are generally supposed to be the vulgar attributes of our lower classes; but the predominance of spirit over matter vindicates itself strikingly across the Atlantic, where, in the lowest strata of society, the native American rowdy, with a face as pure in outline as an ancient Greek coin, and hands and feet as fine as those of a Norman noble, strikes one dumb with the aspect of a countenance whose vile, ignoble hardness can triumph over such refinement of line and delicacy of proportion. A human soul has a wonderful supremacy over the matter which it informs. The American is a whole nation with well-made, regular noses; from which circumstance (and a few others) I believe in their future superiority over all other nations. But the lowness their face is capable of 'flogs Europe.'" Upon this the Quarterly Review remarks: "During an afternoon stroll along one of the most crowded boulevards of Paris, the late Lord Lytton called his companion's attention to the rarity of well-made, regular noses among the French, which he pronounced an unerring sign of the degeneracy of the race."

SINGULAR WEDDING.

Marriage of Two Deaf Mutes Celebrated Last Evening.

Mr. William E. Guss and Miss Delia Cannon—How the Ceremony Was Performed.

A very singular marriage ceremony took place in this city late yesterday afternoon, both the contracting parties, Mr. William E. Guss and Miss Delia Cannon, being deaf mutes. As might be naturally supposed, it is difficult for a divine possessed of ordinary powers to conduct such a difficult ceremony with a conscientious regard for the sanctity of the obligations assumed. Miss Cannon being a Catholic, it was the desire of her family that she should be married by a priest, and, in accordance with their will, Father McCaffery was called upon to pronounce the banns. An interpreter with command of the sound language was called into service to repeat the sacred words of the priest. Great difficulties were experienced in translating, the literal phraseology of the text so that when the ceremony ended the groom was still in doubt as to the legal strength of the bond based upon vows so indistinctly understood. The marriage was celebrated by the priest at the residence of the bride No. 1331 North Ninth street, and immediately afterward the guests sat down to supper, which they hurried through. Supper over, the couple sprang into a carriage accompanied by a single friend and drove hurriedly to the residence of Rev. J. W. Lewis, of the M. E. Church, No. 3121 Washington avenue, who was asked to repeat the ceremony. Mr. Lewis has a half-brother who is a deaf mute and had learned many of the mystical signs that take the place of speech from him. This fact was known to both the bride and the groom, and they decided to ask him to officiate. The party arrived at the house of Mr. Lewis at 6 o'clock and found to their great satisfaction a person who understood the language of signs even better than the minister. This was Lewis Kavanaugh, the nephew of Mr. Lewis, and the son of the mute half-brother. Several minutes were devoted to the discussion of a plan for properly carrying out the ceremony before one was finally decided upon. At first it was thought best to have young Kavanaugh repeat by signs all the words of the minister, but this was abandoned, because it was too tedious, and besides it had already proven a sort of failure. Mr. Kavanaugh was finally called upon to explain to the couple that they would be expected to read from the book of service exactly what the minister pronounced aloud, and that when the groom was asked whether he would take this woman to be his lawfully wedded wife," etc., he should, after reading the same from the book, lift up his hand and make the sign which meant, "Yes, I will." Similar instructions where given the lady, who was also provided with a book. The contract was sealed with a ring, and when it became necessary for the groom to follow the words of the minister, saying, "With this ring I thee endow with all my earthly goods," etc., the eyes of the groom were intently fixed upon the printed words of the book, so there could possibly be no mistake as to his power of comprehending what was meant.

Neither of the couple seemed embarrassed by the transaction, and both smiled and shook hands with everybody after the final words of the text were pronounced.

The bride is a graduate of the Fulton Asylum and the groom was educated in Philadelphia. He is a good mechanic and is now employed in Brownell & Wright's car factory in this city. At 7 o'clock the couple took a train for the East, where their silent honeymoon will be passed.

A Rollicking Lord.

From the New York Sun.

Lord Charles Beresford, who recently distinguished himself at Alexandria as commander of the gunboat Condor, is a nephew of that Marquis of Waterford, whose name used to figure so frequently in the police reports half a century ago, and is said to exhibit not a little of the larking, rollicky disposition of that eccentric peer. He belonged for a long time to the Prince of Wales' set, but seems of late years to have steadied himself. During the American war of the rebellion he was a midshipman on board the flagship Sutlej, of the Pacific squadron, and one night while the ship lay in Honolulu harbor, at the Sandwich Islands, he asked leave to go ashore. His sympathies, like most Englishmen of his class at the time, were with the Southern Confederacy, and he thought he couldn't better display them than by climbing up in the dark and sawing down the shield which decorated the door of the United States Consulate. The act was traced to him without much trouble, and the Admiral compelled him to make reparation by climbing up again in broad daylight, in the presence of the assembled populace and officers of the fleet and fasten the shield back in its place.

A Tariff on Watermelons.

From Texas Siftings.

"How are the colored voters coming on out on Onion Creek?" asked an Austin candidate of a darky with a load of hay.

"Dar's a heap ob sickness out dar among de colored folks."

"What is it, malaria?"

"I reckon dat's de name ob de stuff. Hit am sumfin what he got from de druggery shop."

"What stuff are you talking about?"

"De stuff a white man out dar puts in his water-millins to keep de colored folks from mistakin' 'em for da' own watermillins."

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis—ss.
In the Circuit Court City of St. Louis,
In Vacation after June Term, 1882.
Saturday, August 19, 1882.
Kate Pohlman
vs.
August Pohlman.

It appearing from the affidavit heretofore filed herein, that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri, and has absented himself from his usual place of abode so that process cannot be served upon him, it is therefore, on motion of plaintiff by her attorney.

Ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony contracted by plaintiff with defendant on the ground that defendant has absented himself from plaintiff without a reasonable cause for more than the space of one year, to-wit: from July 25, 1877, to January 9, 1881.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St Louis on the first Monday of December next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis POST-DISPATCH, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court City of St. Louis, this 19th day of August, 1882.

What is the voice of past ages regarding special practice? Herodotus, the father of history, says that in Egypt, 3,000 years ago, "certain individuals treated certain diseases only." He adds. "no doubt they in this copied the Assyrians of earlier ages.—[HERODOTUS Enterpe. section 84. TO-DAY IN AMERICA.

Austin Flint, M. D., Professor in Bellevue Medical College, New York, says in his Principles and Practice of Medicine, 1873, page 28, "the more important specialties are now recognized. Specialties result from an increase of knowledge, rendering it difficult for one mind to compass all." We say all honor to this master mind and teacher, who stands highest in pathological knowledge in this country. His works are text books in all medical colleges

It is self-evident that a physician paying particular attention to a class of cases attains great skill, and physicians in regular practice all over the country, knowing this, frequently recommend cases to this oldest office in America, where every known appliance is resorted to, and the proved good remedies of all ages and countries are used. A whole house is used for office purposes, and all are treated with skill in a respectful manner; and, knowing what to do, no experiments are made. On account of the great number of cases applying, the charges are kept low, often lower than is demanded by others. If you secure the skill and get a speedy and perfect cure, that is the important matter

THE boom for Blacksmith BUTLER is big and bounding.

"OH, have you heard the news from Maine?" We have.

IT is a sin to steal a pin, and it is very unfortunate for a small thief to be associated with eminently respectable brigands in expediting the Star Routes. That's what the jury says.

AFTER all, Ohio is not a thoroughly civilized State. They use the hideous shower-bath on refractory prisoners in the Penitentiary. Barbarian BRADBURY will take courage now.

THAT verdict in the Star Route case is a warning to all the world that it is extremely dangerous to steal in a picayune way. It is the small criminals who always "get the worst of it."

NOW that Mr. DORSEY has been relieved of his embarrassment, to some extent, we presume he will devote himself with some assiduty to his duties as Secretary of the National Republican Committee.

IT is a graceful thing in Gov. COLQUITT, of Georgia, to appoint Senator BEN. HILL's son to the unexpired Senatorial term. The vacancy will soon be filled by the Legislature' however, and the young man will have nothing to do beyond drawing the salary.

A DISPATCH from the seat of war says: "The ROTHSCHILDS presented the British army in Egypt twelve tons of tobacco and five thousand pipes, which the Khedive allowed to enter duty free." The painful delay at Kassassin, we presume, is due to the intention of the British commander to "smoke the enemy out."

THE nomination of EDWARD BUTLER, of Ward One, as a Democratic candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, has met with a hearty indorsement. The very forges in the workshops are blazing for BUTLER, and the horses that wear the Goodenough shoes are prancing with pride. In politics it is natural to prefer the creator to the thing created. Hence BUTLER is regarded as superior to BUTLER's dog.

IT is no doubt unjust to the Hon. JOHN O'NEILL, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, to associate his name with that of JAY GOULD. Mr. O'NEILL repudiates all connection with JAY and his reputed agent, BROKMEYER. When we last saw Mr. O'NEILL he convinced us that the actual balance of his campaign fund was eighty-five cents cash. Mr. GOULD's candidates, as a rule, can shake more than that sum out of their clothing.

MR. WM. S. POPE sends us a postal card to bear testimony to the efficacy of the POST-DISPATCH as an advertising medium. He inserted an advertisement four times. Result: "I have rented two houses and sold one; have one more for sale or rent and have several applicants for that. I think I received full benefit from the ad." This is the universal testimony of those who avail themselves of the excellent means that we afford of communicating with the public.

BY the way, it seems that the Arkansas Outrage Mill broke down because the hopper was filled with too much suddenness. But the name of the gallant Globe-Democrat correspondent who came near perishing in the Mississippi woods because some young men in Helena, under the influence of liquor, offended his sense of propriety, should be forwarded to the National Republican Committee. There may be pensions for men who are wounded by gallinippers in a sacred cause of this character.

JOHN G. PRIEST, who has some ambition to be regarded as the High Priest of Missouri Democracy, touched at Chicago yesterday on his way to New York, and came in contact with a newspaper reporter who quotes him thus:

Mr. Priest said that the St. Louis city Dem-[illegible]crats, who in the last two elections have been

A CORRESPONDENT at Ismailia telegraphs to London as follows:

The impatience of the army to be led forward is so obvious, and the skill of Gen. Wolseley so often proved, it is certain some sufficient military reason must exist to account for the delay in making an advance.

The military reason that prevents the advance is quite sufficient. The Egyptian gentlemen of hostile mien in front of the English army are too numerous to make picnicking desirable.

THE STAR ROUTE TRIAL.

Four of the most infamous men in America for some years to come will be, and of right ought to be, the four jurymen who stood out, against the law and the evidence and the judgment of the other eight, to save the opulent rogues of the Star Route conspiracy from the Penitentiary. That they utterly stultified their decision and absurdly exposed themselves by voting to convict MINER and RERDELL, the two poor subordinates of BRADY and DORSEY, while voting to acquit the big plunderers themselves, is admitted by the latter's own counsel. If any conspiracy at all is established by the evidence, it is a conspiracy which could not have been successful without the official and political influence of BRADY and DORSEY, and of which BRADY, the two DORSEYS and VAILE were the originators, managers and principal beneficiaries.

The vote which acquits them and convicts their poor tools will be as hard to explain to the satisfaction of the American people as the huge fortunes so suddenly acquired by the men implicated as leaders in the Star Route frauds. It is to be hoped that the influences under which these four jurymen have acted so strangely will be exposed to public execration and to the severest penalties the law has provided for the protection of our judicial tribunals. Their conduct has sent an unpleasant and demoralizing shock throughout the Union. It has notified all persons in a position to rob the Government that they have only to put money in their purse to buy a verdict of acquittal from a Washington jury. It is a notice to the poor and the desperate everywhere that successful money getting totally blinds our courts of justice to everything criminal in the means; that they exist to punish the poor rather than the guilty. What a realistic illustration of Iago's cynical advice to moneyless men!

One of the four, it seems, was so resentfully equitable that, after helping to get up a verdict of guilty against MINER and RERDELL, and voting in vain to convict BRADY, he concluded if BRADY could not be convicted no more of the gang should be, and so cast the one vote against eleven in VAILE's case. A man who can be induced thus to vote against his avowed opinions as to the guilt or innocence of a prisoner is not much above the worst influences which are supposed to have controlled the other three members of the BRADY salvage corps. The air is full of shameful rumors, the public disgust is intense, and the desire that an example shall be made of this case and our public tribunals purged of all lobby methods and influences is universal.

DEMOCRATIC FAILURE.

There is much significance in the indications that the Republicans have carried Maine by an increased plurality, with a gain of two Congressmen—which means a solid delegation. This shows that the tendency to a union of the opposition elements against the Republicans was temporary, lacking in durable cement, and is passing away. While it is probable that the division of the Republican vote in Pennsylvania may enable the Democrats to carry that State by a plurality, it is conceded that the two Republican factions will together show the usual Republican majority and be ready to unite again, strengthened rather than weakened by the present sacrifice of party success for the overthrow of bossism. And so there is nowhere any sign of a popular drift towards the Democratic party. It is too much of a torpid negative in politics, missing great opportunities to win popular confidence by keeping up with the advanced currents of public opinion and anticipating urgent public demands. With the power in Congress to place itself at the head of great reforms in the civil service and the system of taxation, it did nothing but cut down appropriations, leaving surplus revenues to accumulate and be squandered in jobs. The opposition party that is content with vain attacks on the entrenched position which it invariably occupies in the next campaign, as the Administration party advances with the people, must always remain an opposition party. It may exert a wholesome influence as a drag preventing too hasty progress, but it cannot enter into the field of constructive statesmanship, where competition is so much needed and can make itself most effectively felt.

The Democratic party is to-day harmonious only on dead issues, divided against itself on every living question, and led by old politicians who are behind the times and intent only on the spoils of political success. It needs new blood and fresh brains at the front, men who can grapple with new ideas and sympathize with the feelings of a new generation under the pressure of new conditions of life. Millions of Democrats and great unaffiliated opposition elements are waiting for this change in the Democratic party. Will it ever come?

The Flirtation Question.

ST. LOUIS, September 12, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"Rosa C." wanted to learn of you yesterday whether, in case a lady should evince a desire for a flirtation with a gentleman, it would be impolite should he refuse to acknowledge it. I profess to be posted on the momentous subject and will enlighten the fair inquirer. I don't think there is a man living who would be so rude, and if she met with any such rebuff it surely would be because the gentleman didn't "tumble to her racket." How did she evince her inclination? There are three degrees of flirtatious evidence. The sly smile, the wink circumstantial and the tip direct. If she can't manage the first, try the second, and if he doesn't "catch on" then, the tip will surely fetch him. If the damsel walks like a camel and is shaped like a hat-rack, she might as well tackle him on the third degree at once and then retire from the contest; if her personnel be of the Langtryan style, the first move usually suffices. If "Rosa" has been wasting her sweetness on some dullard let her turn to one of us and she will be appreciated.

ST. LOUIS, MO., September 12, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I observe that a member of my sex has started a momentous issue in your paper—Flirtation. By the way, perhaps it would be just as well to have the matter settled at the start, and I write you to know what you understand flirtation to be in good society.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Ed. McCullom wagers R. F. Poundstone $50 that in a town election Prosser will be elected Alderman. The election is a tie. Now does Poundstone win the bet or not? By answering this you will greatly oblige your many readers at Carterville.

J. R.

[As Prosser was not elected, the man who bet that he would be certainly loses. If, in case of a tie, the law authorizes the drawing of lots, the man who gets the office in this way is duly elected, and the wager must be determined accordingly.—ED. P.-D.]

Notaries as Attorneys.

ST. LOUIS, September 12, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

1. I would like to know whether a Notary Public, as such, has a right to appear in a court of record as attorney for a party?
2. Is our Probate Court a court of record?
3. If a notary has no such right, whose duty is it to "sit down" on him in such a case?

Drunkards in the Parks.

ST. LOUIS, September 10.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Last Sunday, near 2 p. m., I had occasion to pass through Jackson Park, on North Market street, with a friend. The park is but one block in width, but in traveling that distance we saw four drunken men asleep on the benches. The Fourth District police station is but a block distant from the park, and in front of it (the station) were three able bodied police officers whiling the hours away in blissful unconcern as to how the city ordinances were enforced in their vicinity. Where's Dan Kerwin?

An Engine of Reform.

From the Neosho (Mo.) Republican.

The POST-DISPATCH, having finished making sausage meat of Gov. Crittenden, is now turning its attention to Jay Gould and his system of Missouri railroads. Fattening on the Governor's gore has not diminished the POST-DISPATCH's appetite for blood. If Mr. Gould is absorbing the Missouri roads in contravention to Missouri law, he will find in the POST-DISPATCH an opponent untiring and attentive to business as Sinbad found the Old Man of the Sea.

Lost and Found.

While at the Union Depot, between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening, Fred. Morsen, of Smithton, Illinois, lost his pocketbook containing $150 in cash.

John Callahan, who lives on Gamble and Scott avenues, lost a fine gold watch and chain yesterday while taking a walk during the afternoon in the vicinity of Grand avenue and the Manchester road.

At 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Nellie Buckley, the daughter of John Buckley, of Engine No. 2, found a purse containing $8 in money and three gold rings.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

John Cummings was jailed last night for being drunk and disorderly, and fined $3 and costs this morning.

Flannigan's new building will be opened this evening by a ball on a large scale, to which the whole town is invited.

The City Council will hold a meeting tonight and will reorganize the police force, adding eight new men and dropping some of the old officers. Claims will be allowed and other important business transacted.

Mayor McLean, in behalf of the city, offered a reward of $500 for the capture of the murderers of Andrew Wettig, of St. Clair county, and the State will also offer rewards, and the amount be increased to $1,000. No new clew has been discovered, but the Sheriff and Deputy Anthony are confident the information obtained from their mysterious friend will lead to startling discoveries. Some important facts are not yet satisfactorily explained and until they are no arrests will be made. The clue obtained by the police yesterday amounted to nothing and has been dropped.

AMUSEMENTS.

Opening of the New Olympic Theater.

"The Black Crook" and "One of The Finest"—Callender's Colored Minstrels—"Billee Taylor" at the Pickwick.

The management of the new Olympic kept their word with the public, and last evening threw open the doors of the new theater even earlier than they had announced. The New Olympic fronts one hundred and fifteen feet on Fifth street. The front of the building is constructed of massive Indiana cut stone in the Renaissance style, and is elaborately carved and ornamented with galvanized iron entablature and cornice. The entrance is at the northern end and is 28 feet wide and beautifully decorated. Entrance to the parquette and parquette circle is on a level with the sidewalk. Two sets of doors respectively 12 and 7 feet wide admit to the foyer. The foyer is divided from the promenade by a series of columns connected by heavy portieres of crimson Turcoman cloth, finished with a dado of gold-colored surah satin. The promenade is again divided from the parquette circle by a railing of panels and balusters of highly polished cedar wood, the top of the railing being upholstered in crimson flush. In the northwest corner of the theater is a triangular apartment, intended to be used as a ladies' retiring, cloak and toilet room. A broad stairway in the main entrance leads to the family circle. The gallery entrance is separated from the main entrance, the box-office of the theater occupying the space between them. The stage is at the south end of the building, and is one of the largest and most complete in the country. Its width is from wall to wall, a distance of eighty feet; its depth from the foot-light to the rear is forty-five feet and from the drop-curtain to the rear forty feet, and its height is sixty-four feet from the floor to the rigging. The proscenium opening is thirty-eight feet square. Each side of the stage has its own complete set of traps, bridges and double fly galleries. The floor is what is known as a platform floor and is so arranged as to make the setting of any stage picture, no matter how novel or complicated it may be, an easy matter. The stage is set in a frame of elaborately carved wood, and from the center of the arch a massive bust of John McCullough looks down. The ceilings and walls of the theater are frescoed in light colors on a groundwork of gold. The main ceiling is in the shape of a dome. The proscenium boxes, six in number, face the audience. The seating capacity of the house is 2,300, making the new theater the third largest in the United States. The auditorium is divided into four parts, viz.: the parquette, the parquette or dress circle, the family circle and the gallery. The chairs in the parquette, parquette circle and family circle are the well-known Demorest patent iron folding chairs. They are of a new design, especially manufactured for this theater. The house is carpeted throughout. The precautions against fire, or panics, or any other accident that can happen, are as complete and as perfect as human foresight can make them. The walls of the building are twenty-two inches thick. The exits from the theater are numerous and easy to reach in case of an emergency. The theater is provided with a drop curtain and an act drop. The latter is a close imitation of satin drapery, and is excellently painted in three colors, crimson, amber and ivory white. It is the work of the talented scenic artist Mr. Richard Halley.

The opening performance was Emmet's new play, "Fritz Among the Gypsies." The initiatory exercise was the reading by the well-known elocutionist, Mrs. Annie Moore Scott, of a prologue written expressly for the occasion by Mr. Thomas E. Garrett, entitled "Time and Tide." Mrs. Scott was warmly received and acquitted herself to the entire satisfaction of the audience. Then came the play, "Fritz with the Gypsies." The delightful Emmet was as charming and as graceful as ever, and the hearty and prolonged applause which greeted him must have convinced him how large is the place he occupies in the heart of the St. Louis public. The story of the play is concerned with Fritz's search of a brother and his resultant adventures with the Gypsies. The play introduces a new star hardly less attractive than the genial Fritz himself. This is Emmet's wonderful St. Bernard dog, Bayard, Jr., who is thoroughly trained to his part, and who apparently has as much appreciation of the situation as any person in the play. A real gypsy wagon, gypsy tent and gypsy basket, with real gypsy costumes, are introduced. Fritz's singing was marred by a slight huskiness, which is sure to wear off before the week is over. His acting had the old-time charm and was as mirth provoking as ever. He was well supported by his own company—Miss Georgie Tyler, Miss Jennie Christie, and Messrs. Miller, Huebner, Wade, O'Rourke and Donnelly. The play will be keps on for the rest of the week.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Callender's Consolidated Colored Minstrels were received by a crowded house at the Grand Opera last evening. They furnish an excellent entertainment replete with novelty, and the jokes, songs and sketches are all good. The consolidated troupe includes fourteen end men, two interlocutors, a score of vocalists, the like number of musicians and a dozen female minstrels. The vocal talent is very strong, Wallace King, Dick Little and Ed. Bowen bringing down the house with their selections. William Welch, formerly of Haverly's Mastodons, directs the programme, and all the rollicking features of plantation life are admirably presented in a performance adapted to the most refined taste. The variety sketches were received with rounds of applause. The colored minstrels will remain for the week at the Grand and they will be greeted by full houses at each performance.

POPE'S.

The magnificent spectacular production, the "Black Crook," is a strong attraction at Pope's this week. The house was filled in every part last evening and the performance was received with renewed applause. The Kiralfy troupe is strong in every department, an excellent cast being furnished. The role of Amina is admirably filled by Miss Viola Randall, the nom du theatre of the daughter of a prominent citizen. Miss Randall has a clear voice, enunciates distinctly, and her elocution is marked by a degree of intelligence rarely met with in a debutante. She has the advantages of a handsome personal appearance, and her costumes, which were rich and tasteful, evinced good judgment as to color and effect. Miss Randall's career on the stage will be watched with interest, and it is not presuming too far to say that she will advance rapidly in the profession she has chosen. Nellie Larkelle, as Stalacta, won flattering evidences of appreciation. The ballet is superbly dressed, and the whole entertainment is presented on a grand scale of splendor and magnificence with brilliant scenic effects. "The Black Crook" will be repeated every evening and at the matinee to-morrow.

PEOPLE'S THEATER.

Gus Williams, in "One of the Finest," is drawing immense audiences to the People's this week. To accommodate the purchasers of tickets for the benefit of the Police Relief Fund there will be matinees on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Several people were turned away from the doors last night.

Mr. W. C. Steigers,

Of the POST-DISPATCH, will call upon merchants wishing rates or other information about advertising.

CADY'S COURT.

The McWilliams Case—Frank Fone Remanded—Other Matters.

In the Court of Criminal Correction to-day Charles Wilson, alias Nelson, was arraigned on the charge of the larceny of a suit of clothing from Nicholas Segue on the 29th of August. The evidence was deemed insufficient to hold him and he was discharged.

The notorious Frank Fone, who has managed to escape from the custody of deputy sheriffs four times in the Criminal and Police Court, was brought in to-day on a charge of burglary and larceny. This charge was made against him in order to hold him for the grand jury's action. Last week, in the Criminal Court, the indictment was declared by Judge Laughlin to be imperfectly drawn, and he was discharged. The case was continued until September 20.

Dr. Robert McWilliams, who is charged with aiding in the death of Miss Gussie Ellergood, the young woman who died in the City Hospital in July from the supposed effects of malpractice, will be tried this afternoon. The young woman had been betrayed by a villian named Harry J. Pate, who, through the medium of slushy love letters, gained her affections and then deserted her. Upon her death bed, Miss Ellergood stated to a nurse that Dr. McWilliams had attended her. The doctor claims that he did not know her at all and apparently has been anxious to have a hearing ever since. This will be granted to-day. The young woman's betrayer is now in the Work-house serving a sentence for vagrancy.

JURISDICTION IN CHAMBERS.

Writ of Prohibition on Judge Thayer Recalled—A Refractory Witness.

Judge Lewis and Thompson, of the Court of Appeals, announced an adverse verbal decision to-day in the matter involving the issuance of a writ of prohibition on Judge Thayer restraining him from dissolving an injunction. The Circuit Judge had intimated that he would dismiss the proceeding of some of the creditors of the St. Louis Furniture Company, who sought to restrain payment of moneys in the hands of the Sheriff in satisfaction on a confessed judgment in favor of the Rubelman Hardware Company. To stay the hands of the court in vacation the question was brought up as to whether the Circuit Judge in chambers had authority to vacate an order of injunction granted in vacation. The judges of the Court of Appeals, upon application of the dissenting creditors, granted a writ of prohibition in chambers, and precisely the same questions touching jurisdiction in chambers were argued before them. The result is that to-day they have ordered their writ to be recalled, and Judge Thayer's hands are loosened again to act as his judgment dictates in the matter of dissolving the injunction. Upon hearing the decision of the Court of Appeals Judge Thayer said that he would make some disposition of the case to-morrow.

Before Notary Oldfield, at the office of Col. Crawford, depositions were resumed this morning in the dissenting creditors' suit and the testimony bore upon the affairs of the St. Louis Furniture Company, E. J. White and J. Bond representing the Rubelman Hardware Company. The notary announced that after taking the best legal advice in the city he had reached the conclusion that the witness Arie de Jong, secretary of the St. Louis Furniture Company, must answer the question put to him yesterday, with reference to the day book, or stand committed for contempt. After some consultation Mr. White, while disputing the authority, advised the witness to answer, and withdrew the objection. Yesterday he declined to look at or to identify the book. The examination then proceeded with occasional brushes between the interested parties. A great deal of feeling is manifested by some of the creditors of the Furniture Company, and the fight waxes warm.

COTTON AND CORN.

How the Crops of Texas Look and Their Prospects.

Two Lucky Speculators—Comments on Corn—Odds and Ends.

Capt. Joe Nanson has just returned from an extended business trip through Texas. He says Texas has a fine crop of corn—the best she ever had—but that most of it is still standing in the fields, as the planters are giving all their attention to their cotton crop. In consequence, vines are running all over the corn, thus keeping it damp. Capt. Nanson is of the opinion that hardly any of this Texas corn will come to St. Louis. He, with his traveling man, was trying to buy corn and could only get 10 to 20 cars. The farmers are getting 35c a bushel in shock and still on the stalk, which would make it cost about 45c on track. Corn is shipped to Galveston, New Orleans and throughout the State to mills, and this demand takes all the corn offering. Cotton stands very high, but has been doing poorly owing to recent flooding rains. The planters were considerably worried over the prospects, though the weather is clear there now, and they look for an improvement in the crop. They say they have such a cotton crop that it will take them the next two months to pick it, and they have got to let the corn stand until they get through. The oat crop was fine too, but none of it will come north. Every man who has an elevator is storing oats, and paying from 30c to 35c per bushel. These oats will be shipped to New Orleans, Galveston and to the United States Government to go west.

NOTES.

McGorch, of Chicago, who is the principal long for September wheat in that market, is said to be getting very tired of the load he is carrying and seizes every chance he can to sell and get rid of some of his wheat.

Year corn struck half a dollar to-day, and it looked for a while as though cash corn was going below 60c, but shippers stepped in "sorter promiscuous like" and bought so freely at 61c that the sellers thought they would hold on for a while.

A successful trader since his first appearance on the floor, which was only a short time ago, is E. C. More, whom the boys have jocosely dubbed "Jumbo" from his size. He jumped on to the right side of grain by rare good luck, kept doubling up his sales as he made profits, until now it is estimated he is worth between $25,000 and $50,000. It is understood he started with less than $1,200.

The death of Samuel A. Smith, secretary of the Empire Milling Company, while no surprise, was received with expressions of deep regret by the members, among whom he numbered many warm friends. The funeral services will be held to-morrow at 2:30 p. m. at 1742 McNair avenue, carriages leaving Lynch's, 1008 Olive street, at 2 p. m., for the accommodation of such friends as wish to attend.

The bears in Chicago are said to be shaking out the longs on corn just as rapidly as they can. Several rich bulls who had corn bought there have been obliged to sell out, owing to the persistent hammering and drop in prices. N. Corwith, the "pig lead man," is the heaviest long for November corn, and as he has plenty of the needful to back up his deal, he has so far held on with a firm grip, but it is thought it is only a matter of time when he will have to let go.

Ben R. Davenport, the attorney who has been speculating on 'Change since the courts closed, has been striking it rich. It is currently reported that his winnings on the short side of wheat and corn amount to $50,000. This morning all his deals were cleaned up and he bade farewell to the "knights of the pit" until next season. He thinks he has got money enough to carry him through winter, and he wishes to resume his legal practice at the October term of the court.

Corn suffered a bad black eye again to-day, dropping off in price from the severe hammering inflicted upon it by the shorts. There were any amount of buyers of the year option, however, and at around 50c they were too eager to purchase, preventing it from getting below that price at the early call, so hungry were they for it. It was the shorts alone that were buying, as there were no parties having nerve enough to go along in the present demoralized state of the market.

A couple of failures were reported in Chicago this morning, but they were small affairs and had little or no effect upon the market. No fears are felt of anyone going to the wall here in St. Louis. The local crowd is too bearish, and nearly all on the selling side. About the only buyers are parties who are taking in profits from sales at higher prices. The bulls—a hopeless minority just now—are standing off biding their time, or else quietly scalping or getting scalped, as the case may be.

Old Missouri will be the banner State for corn this year, and no mistake about that. From every section of the State come the most flattering reports of the condition and quality of the crop, while all the samples so far shown are simply magnificent. To-day Messrs. Price, Marmaduke & Co. received a specimen of the average crop of Saline county, that they showed on the floor, attracting admiring attention for its superior appearance. The ears were large, well filled out and hard and dry—out of all danger of frost, which indeed would do it more good than harm, so advanced was this corn. The sample was sent in by Bellamy & Co., of Borwnsville, Mo.

Without a Home.

Mary Moore, a woman without any permanent place of abode, was forwarded to Council Bluffs, Iowa, this morning. During the past year she has passed through the Union Depot no less than half a dozen times. Originally she came from Council Bluffs, and, although without any means, she is constantly traveling from one point to another. She has a child in arms and is a pitiable case of poverty.

A HOMELY HERO.

Fred Theiss Describes the Daniels Homicide.

The Singular Dilemma in Which a Brave Old Man was Placed.

The killing of H. H. Daniels at Fred. Theiss' place, three miles from Venice, on the Edwardsville road, on Sunday evening, reported in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH, is still the sensation of the day on the East side. The true story of the homicide, as told by Fred Theiss himself, reflects credit on that person, and goes to show that the condition of things about Venice is very nearly to that point where lynch law will have to be applied. The country is thoroughly tramp-ridden. Sturdy beggars infest the whole district, running in and out of the city and preying upon the farmers in Madison and St. Clair counties until these people have come to that point where they must protect their families and their property at the pistol point. Theiss is a very fair sample of the average German farmer. He is about fifty-five years old, rough-looking and illiterate, but with a very determined expression, and he bears the reputation of a man not to be trifled with. Daniels and two other men had been cleaning wells between Alton and Edwardsville, and were drinking heavily on Sunday afternoon. At the Five-mile House on the Edwardsville road Daniels and his friends, one of whom was named Childers—the other is not known—met a woman who, with her two daughters, was traveling along the road. They insulted her and had evidently made up their mind to use violence, when she escaped and ran her horse along the road toward Venice. A young farmer from Marine, Ill., named Griffin, interfered in her behalf and was badly beaten by the drunken men. He got away from them, however, and by a short cut overtook the woman, who, with her tired horse, was able to make but little headway before her pursurers caught up with her. He took the lines and whipped up the animal, stopping at two houses on the way to borrow a gun or weapon of some sort, but failed each time, and the balance of the story may be best told in Theiss' own words.

"It was late in the evening when a wagon dashed up to the fence on which I was sitting and a man with his face all bloody (Griffin) asked me if I would let him come inside and give him a gun to protect the women from some tramps who were following them. The woman and her daughters were crying and scared to death, and I let them come in, although I was afraid the men might be trying to rob me too. You see we've got to watch everybody in the country now, there's so many tramps, and they are up to so many tricks. He wanted a gun, but I wouldn't let him have one, I told him I would protect him if he was in danger, but in my house I was the only one and my boys who would do any shooting. I was so suspicious of him that I made him lie down on a cot, and warned him not to get up or to move away from it, and if he had I would have shot him. I had a good deal of money in the house, and I thought all the time it might be a scheme to rob me. Well, while I was watching him, these other fellows came along and began raising h—. My boy, who is sixteen years old, fired off his gun in the air to scare them off, but I told him he might as well try to scare a lot of Texas steers by whistling at them. I made him load up his gun again and stay in the house to protect his mother if they got away with me on the outside, and then I went out. There were three men out there, and one of them, Daniels, said I had a horse-thief in the house, and I must bring him out. He said he was a constable. I asked him if he had a warrant and he said he had, and for me to bring out a candle for him to read it. All this time they were edging nearer to me. I told him that I would keep the man until daylight, and for him to come with his warrant then if he had one, but to go away until then and not attempt to come into the yard. Well, we jawed back and forward for a while, and I warned them again not to try to come in. Daniels came to the gate and I said, 'Man, I beg you stop; if you take another step you're a dead man.' But I had made too much fun with them already and they wouldn't believe me, and Daniels yelled at me, 'You wouldn't shoot nothing.' Then he lifted his club and all three rushed in yelling, 'Shoot! shoot! we'll kill you anyhow.' Then I let him have it in the stomach and the others stopped and then run away. I went back to the house to watch the other fellow and the women folks. In the morning they had the inquest, and then all these people went away."

"What was the woman's name?"

"I don't know. I never asked her name. She was a mover, I think. I didn't care what her name was; if she was hunted by a lot of fellows, I wanted to save her, and if she and the man was trying to rob me I wanted to look out for them, and so I never thought about her name. They got supper and breakfast in my house and wanted to pay me for it, but I would not let them."

"How old were the two daughters?"

"They were pretty big girls, 16 and 14 years old, the woman said."

When he was killed Daniels had a fifty-dollar counterfeit bill in his pocket and he lived long enough to tell his companion Childers, who returned to him when Theiss went into the house, to take it out and away. Childers took it and what other money he had and went to the Coroner in Venice, to whom he paid a $3 fee out of Daniels' money for going out to the inquest. Childers was arrested in Venice last night on a charge of attempted burglary, but was released this morning, Coroner Youree going on his bond. The Coroner declares that the fact that no one knows the name of the woman who was pursued by the miscreants was simply an accident. She was a "mover" going toward St. Louis. The jury returned a verdict in the case of justifiable homicide.

Robbing a Little Girl.

As Detectives Herbert and Hennessy were walking on Market street last night at about 8 o'clock their attention was attracted by a cry issuing from a hallway at No. 820. Upon investigating they found a woman named Bridget Joyce forcibly taking a pair of rings from the ears of a six-year-old daughter of Louis Koeher. The woman was arrested and locked up. A warrant charging her with larceny was sworn out. She is an old-timer, and has served several terms in the Work-house and Jail.

Missing.

Information is asked concerning the whereabouts of Louisa Robinson, a young girl of sixteen, who left her home about two weeks ago. She has dark complexion and eyes, black hair cut short in front. She wore, when she was last seen by her friends, a light dress trimmed with blue; a black hat trimmed with lace, and gray cloth button shoes. Her mother is very much worried over her absence, and has the idea that her daughter may have been led astray.

Sudden Death.

Information was received by the Coroner this morning that Charles Goehlke, a shoemaker living at No. 414 South Second street, had died suddenly at about 1:30 o'clock. At that time his wife was awakened by his groaning, and upon lighting a match discovered that he was bleeding from both his nose and mouth. The Coroner will hold an inquest, although death was caused by hemorrhage of the lungs.

Burned.

CLARION, PA., September 12.—The Court-house burned this morning; loss, $30,000. The records were saved.

SABBATH SCENES.

Sunday Night Dances Which Disgrace the City.

How Young Men and Girls are Ruined and Degraded.

The Law on the Subject Quoted—Let the Officials Do Their Duty and These Haunts of Vice Can be Closed.

The exposé of the dance-houses and dram-shop attachments, as published in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH, excited very considerable attention. There were those who, as usual, affected the belief that the statements were colored and exaggerated. There were others who held up their hands in horror and asked why it was that the police should tolerate such open and flagrant violations of all the rules of decency and modesty.

In regard to exaggeration, those who are posted know that the truth was not half told. There are scenes enacted at most of these gatherings so vile that even the slightest hint of their nature could not be given. The man who attempts to give an idea of them can describe the drinking, the smoking, the dancing, and the drunkenness, but he can barely hint at the nature of the conversation carried on, principally between boys and girls who have scarcely reached the legal age, and he must entirely expunge from his account scenes that are as common as they are striking. People about town, the "boys" and those who know, sneered and said that there were other places, and worse places, than those described. This is true. Again, many of the places selected for visits on Sunday night were not yet open, although they will be later in the fall. Calls were made at a dozen places, and when the ball was inquired for, the proprietor remarked that it was too early in the season, and that within a week or two the can can would be danced and the beer jerked the same as usual. Within a month, at least a dozen places, now shut down, will be running on Sunday afternoons and evenings—places into which young girls, most of them out from home on pretended walks, sneak covertly, and from which they return without ever mentioning where they have been. It should be remembered that these Sunday dances, as a rule, are not the resort of abandoned women. In two or three places such balls are given. In the greater number of instances the frequenters, especially the females, are girls who work hard all week, who manage to save money enough each summer to secure a neat dress and a more or less flashy hat and who go to these places first for fun, then for beer, and so run down the gamut to ruin.

WHEN A GIRL COMES HOME

at 10 p. m. and tells her mother she was at the "picnic" with Johnny she is not telling a lie all through, for Mr. Bayer, at the Four-mile House, on the St. Charles rock-road, always calls his dance, with grog shop accompaniments, a picnic. Or, when Johnny comes around in the afternoon or evening and asks mamma if Mary Ann can't go to the lawn party he is not deceiving the confiding old lady, absolutely, for Mr. Burlew, whose festive gatherings were described yesterday as far as decency would permit, gives nothing but lawn parties. It is a fact that nine-tenths of the females seen on Sunday night, outside of the Union House, were almost too young to understand how bad they themselves really were, or how horrible were their surroundings. They are mostly of that class of girls who think beer-drinking and cigar-smoking are evidences of precocity, and who do it because it is an out-of-the-way thing to do. At nearly all the places, police were present. They admitted that the gatherings were wrong and should be broken up, but they said that they had no orders to do anything but preserve order and arrest those who engaged in fighting. Many of the places have been running for years, but they have become so successful and so well attended that the outlook this season is that the number will be at least doubled within a month, unless something is done. In addition to the places described yesterday, nearly a dozen were running or in running order, most of them just as bad as those mentioned. Poen's Garden is situated on Eighth and Gates street, just across the way from a police station. Sunday dances have long been a feature there, and last Sunday was no exception to the general rule. The music was kept up there from an early hour in the afternoon until a late hour at night. Then the gas was turned down, and the crowd, composed for the most part of boys and girls from the neighborhood, went off, well soaked with beer. Some of the young hoodlums marched off with their arms around their partners' waists. Others went off mad, and more than one fight occurred outside the garden on account of feminine preferences shown within. The rat-tat music played inside during the dance disturbs all the neighborhood, yet the police do nothing, and say, as usual, that they have no orders.

Stolle's Hall, on Fourteenth and Biddle streets, is another noted spot, which was not running on Sunday night, but which is still one of the best known Sunday dance houses in the city. The dancing season opened on Saturday night and there was a matinee on Sunday afternoon, but the crowd still prefers the suburban retreats while the weather is warm, and as a result dancing was not in full blast on Sunday night. The place was run all last season, and although policed, it was the scene of numerous disgraceful rows. The plan is the same as at the other places. An admission of twenty-five cents is charged to "gentlemen," "ladies" being admitted free. Stolle's will probably be in full blast next Sunday and two policemen will be taken from the already short supply of the Third District patrolmen placed there to watch a gang which the law declares should not be allowed to assemble at all on the Sabbath.

BODEMANN'S GARDEN,

on the Gravois road, was not doing much on Sunday night, but it usually is the scene of a dance, and a lively dance, too. Beer is sold, the boys and girls all drink it, and the same lively scenes are repeated night after night. Mr. Bodemann is a School Director, but if his ideas of running the schools are at all derived from the school he runs on most Sundays at the grove, his services are not as valuable as could be desired.

Solari's road house, on the King's Highway, was somewhat neglected on Sunday night and was therefore not mentioned yesterday. Yet it is a well-known dance-house on Sundays and week days alike. In fact, the most curious sort of gatherings occur there. On Elm street, not far from Sixth, a noted disreputable colored woman keeps a house of ill repute. Some time ago her reputed sister, who lived with her, quarreled with the madam and opened a rival establishment next door. Now these houses, although peopled by colored women, are extremely fashionable. No male negro is ever allowed to enter the doors, the servants are all white, and the patrons are among those society reporters call "our best people." The jealousy and rivalry between the places has been intense. Some time ago, Florence ——, the proprietress who has been longest in the field, gave a grand ball at Solari's place, on King's Highway. Admission was by ticket only. The pasteboards were difficult to get and were most eagerly sought after among the bloods. The females of the house and a few invited guests were the only women present. The men combined persons well known in business and social circles, whose names, if printed, would cause a veritable sensation. The scenes, of course, in such an assemblage—colored courtesans and white "bloods"—can not even be hinted at, at all. The other sister, Babe ——, was fired with a like enthusiasm. She gave a ball at Solari's under the same regulations and with the same apparent exclusiveness as to procuring tickets. The orgie, in point of wild revelry and debauchery, far surpassed the previous event. Each house has already given two balls, and another is in preparation. The attendants are young men who sit with society belles in the boxes on opera nights, and who lead germans at fashionable gatherings during the winter. The "balls" are the wildest debauches ever given in the city.

And so the list swells, until decent people weary of reading such a catalogue of immorality. Now there is no doubt that these gatherings should be broken up. There is no shadow of doubt that they are against the law, that they are yearly ruining thousands of girls and that they are causing more crime than any other establishments in the city. The police do not interfere because the Commissioners have not ordered them to do so.

THE FOLLOWING SECTIONS OF THE LAW

will show that the honorable Board of Police Commissioners of the city has full authority to act in the premises. Mr. Dan Kerwin will not allow hoodlums to gather on street corners, and has issued an order preventing such gatherings, which the police are said to have rigidly enforced. Yet male and female hoodlums are allowed to gather at the grog-shop dances, where they are supplied with all the beer, whisky and tobacco they require, and from which they emerge in a proper condition to break all the laws that ever were made.

The decent people have some rights which the Police Board ought to respect, even if the dance-house keepers suffer. One of them is to demand that the laws which are in plain view on the statute books be enforced in regard to these indecent displays. That the law fully covers the Sunday clause, the following quotations will show. Section 5455 of chapter 98 of the revised statutes of 1879 reads as follows:

Section 5456. Any person having a license as a dramshop-keeper, who shall keep open such dramshop or shall sell, or give away, or otherwise dispose of or suffer the same to be done upon or about his premises, any intoxicating liquors, in any quantity, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, shall, upon conviction thereof, in addition to the penalty now provided by law, forfeit such license and shall not again be allowed to obtain a license to keep a dramshop for the term of two years next thereafter.

Section 5454, of the same chapter, covers another phase of this matter. It will be seen that it relates to

THE MATTER OF SELLING LIQUOR TO MINORS.

Sec. 5454. Every dramshop-keeper who shall sell, give away, or otherwise dispose of, or suffer the same to be done about his premises, any intoxicating liquors in any quantity to any minor without the permission of the parent, master or guardian of such minor first had and obtained, shall forfeit and pay to such parent, master or guardian for every offense the sum of $50, to be recovered by the party entitled to sue by civil action in any court having competent jurisdiction against such dramshop-keeper, or by suit in such court in the name of the county, to the use of the person entitled to sue, on such bond, or a duly authorized copy thereof, against such dramshop-keeper and his sureties, jointly and severally. But every action brought under this section shall be commenced within one year from the time the right of action accrued and not afterwards.

If Mr. Kerwin, or any Police Commissioner, will visit any of the Sunday dances mentioned above, he will see this law violated after every dance, when the conductor yells out the stereotyped "Promenade your partners to the bar."

It will be seen that the following section of the same chapter of the statutes also covers the cases. If the places as described in yesterday's POST DISPATCH are not disorderly, then there is no such thing as disorder.

Sec. 5457. Whenever it shall be shown to the County Court, upon the application of any person, that any dramshop keeper of the county has not kept at all times an orderly house, such court shall order the license of such dramshop keeper to be revoked; and from the date of such order the dramshop-keeper shall be deemed to have no license and to be without authority of law to act as a dramshop-keeper. But the dramshop-keeper shall be notified, in writing, of such application five days before the order shall be made, and the costs shall be awarded against the losing party.

Section 6 of chapter 25 of the revised ordinances of the city of St. Louis provides that any courtesan, etc., who shall be found visiting any beer house or place of public resort, shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than $10.

Section 11 of the same chapter provides that any keeper of a dramshop or other public resort who shall permit any breach of the peace or disturbance of public order or decorum, shall be fined not less than $25 nor more than $250.

The ordinances in a dozen places make it the duty of the Police Board to look after matters of public peace, decency, morality, decorum, etc. The Collector is also empowered to refuse licenses to such people and places. Now, with the law so strongly on their side, cannot Collector Hudson, in connection with Vice-President Kerwin and the Police Board, do something to put down these places? If they cannot, there is no benefit in laws or law-making. If they have the power to do so, and will not exercise it, the decent people of the city should and will insist that the officials mentioned do their full duty in the premises. These places are the ones which gave the boom to the Prohibition movement. People who see what ruin is wrought by them are willing to have every saloon in the land closed in order that these holes may be crushed out of existence. If they are allowed to remain open in this city there is no question but that every decent man will become a Prohibitionist and every woman a whole-souled worker for the cause.

Col. Wm. H. Jacobs, a wealthy citizen and prominent Democratic politician of Milwaukee, died at his residence in that city, on Monday afternoon, aged 50.

A man named John Taylor was arrested in Sedalia, Mo., on Monday, charged with stealing a valuable mule from a farmer of Lamonte, Mo., named McNair.

Monday was observed as a feast day in St. Petersburg. The Emperor and Empress and their children drove through the streets in an open carriage without escort. They were received with enthusiasm by the crowds.

In a street fight at Frankfort, Ky., on Sunday night between Frank Egbert and Stephen Searce, Jere Lee, Chief of Police of the place, who was a bystander, was shot through, and it is thought cannot recover.

Mrs. H. M. Vaile, wife of one of the Star Route defendants, left her home, in Independence, Mo., on Monday evening to meet her husband in Washington. A deed conveying the palatial residence of Vaile, in Independence, to his wife, was recorded on Monday. The consideration was $22,000, about one-fourth of its real value.

Nearly 100 cotton pickers went South from Dallas on Monday night on the Houston and Texas Central to work in the fields in the Brazos region, South Texas. Reports say the crop will be the largest ever gathered in in that section.

Mrs. Chas. S. Carter sues a Brooklyn, N. Y., saloon-keeper for $25,000 damages for causing her husband to become an habitual drunkard. The latter received $17,000 for injuries received in the Ashtabula disaster, and has been on a spree four years.

George F. Nisbet, a ranchman living in Tulerosa Canyon, N. M., is suspected of having murdered his wife, a Miss Woods and a stranger whom he took out driving and whose bodies were afterwards found. Nisbet and his team have not been traced since.

James H. Arnett, a wealthy farmer near Lewiston, Ill., was fatally shot on Sunday night by his son in defence of his mother, whom Arnett was trying to put out doors. The trouble originated from Arnett's intimacy with another woman. Arnett cannot recover.

Patrick Connor, of St. Louis, was in Kansas City on Monday looking for his mother-in-law, Ann Sullivan, who mysteriously disappeared from her home in the latter city a year ago last May. She was demented and had been turned out of doors by her drunken husband.

While Owen McSorley, of Staten Island, N. Y., was out driving on Monday some strangers called at his house and informed the serving man the coach had broken down. The man hurried to the assistance of his employer, and during his absence the house was robbed of $14,000 in bonds.

A young man named Dickens is awaiting trial in Memphis on the charge of having stolen cattle, sheep and hogs from the farmers of Shelby county, Tenn. Dickens' friends have made several armed demonstrations in his favor. Dickens has threatened the life of the prosecuting witness, one John Hall.

A farmer named Thomas Whitaker, who lives on the farm of his half-brother, John Whitaker, near Lyman Station, Dunklin county, Mo., was found dead in his watermelon patch on Monday. His wife declares that John Whitaker killed him, but beyond this there is nothing to indicate the murderer or give a clue to suspicion.

A FALSE REPORT.

The Republican Primary at De Soto—The True Story Told.

DE SOTO, MO., September 10, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In the Republican of the 10th inst. a rather ludicrous dispatch appeared, purporting to give an account of the Republican township primary held here on the 9th, and promising us the treat of a letter giving "facts"(?) from a well-posted individual, styled Judge Rankin. It is a subject of inquiry here as to who Judge Rankin is. It possibly may be intended for Charlie Rankin, who was appointed to the office of Justice of the Peace by the County Court, to fill a vacancy, his uncle, C. C. Fletcher, being Presiding Judge. The value of that letter will be immense! Ask the people of De Soto. The dispatch represented the meeting as an immense anti-Filley or Fletcher success. On the contrary, it was quite the reverse. The Fletchers were sat down on in the organization, and their candidate for County Committee, P. C. Zollman, floored, being beaten by F. C. Smith, P. M., a well-known Filleyite, and from whom the Fletchers have been trying to wrest the Post-office for their protege, P. C. Zollman. The vote stood over two to one in favor of Smith. Neither did they secure a single name on the list of delegates to the county convention. The dispatch also omitted mentioning the attempt to change the hour of meeting—1 o'clock p. m., as set by the County Committee, to 2 p. m.—the object being to give the Fletchers control, as a large number of those present had business that claimed their attention, and would be compelled to leave before that hour, when the friends of the Fletchers could rush in. A motion to proceed to business had to be used to compel Zollman to call the meeting to order at the proper hour. It is well known that Judge Rankin understands the crookedness of certain cliques. It is earnestly hoped that he will expose them thoroughly. Their crookedness is well known. He will probably, however, set up mythical cliques, out of his fertile brain, and proceed to expose. The resolution referred to was rushed through at a time when F. C. Smith, on the committee, and others were absent, some on the committee and others awaiting its report. It would hardly have been accomplished had they been present.

A PARTICIPANT.

REPORT OF MEETING.

DE SOTO, MO., September 8, 1882.—Pursuant to the call of the Republican County Committee, the Republicans of Valle township met here to-day.

P. C. Zollman called the meeting to order. For permanent chairman J. H. Baldwin was nominated by D. M. Park and P. C. Zollman by C. C. Fletcher. A vote by division was called for and J. H. Baldwin declared elected. For Secretary D. M. Park was nominated by F. C. Smith. There being no further nominations, he was elected by acclamation. To select a member of the County Committee to represent Valle township for the ensuing two years being next in order, F. C. Smith was nominated by S. C. Baldwin and P. C. Zollman by E. C. Rankin. Motion made that the meeting proceed to vote by ballot, but amended to read that the meeting proceed to vote by division. After discussion motion as amended carried. On division, the vote standing thirty-two for F. C. Smith and fourteen for P. C. Zollman, F. C. Smith was declared elected.

Motion made that the chair appoint a committee of three to select a list of delegates to the Republican County Convention to meet at Hillsboro, Mo., on the 11th inst.

C. T. Rankin then introduced the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we, the Republicans of Valle township, in Jefferson county, are heartily in favor of a State Convention, and indorse the action of the patriots in their call, and

Resolved, That we denounce the actions of C. I. Filley in his efforts to boss, and, besides, being unworthy of the confidence of the Republicans of this State, by being a broker in the Federal patronage.

Motion made to lay the resolution on the table until after the election of delegates. Not entertained by the chair, but the motion to appoint the committee of three was put and carried.

The chair appointed F. C. Smith, Charles Beisbarth and August Racine.

Pending report of committee and during their absence C. T. Rankin called up his resolution, which the chair requested the secretary to read. After being read the question of its adoption was immediately put by the chair and carried.

The committee reported the following list of delegates: D. M. Park, M. F. Brown, F. C. Smith, Capt. Joseph Walther, Charles Beisbarth, John McMullin, Peter Berg, J. W. Maxwell, Frank Knapp, W. M. Anderson, Jas. Hopson, John Colman, Philip Schaub, J. H. Baldwin.

Motion made that the report of the committee be received and adopted, and the committee discharged, which was carried.

Motion was then made to adjourn, and was carried.

The Markets.

FORENOON SESSION.

Flour—Receipts 6,764 brls. Lower, and the market very weak and decidedly in buyers' favor. Exporters were holding off, as they held no orders at present prices, and only look for fresh orders at 15@20c decline; demand light from other sources and supply large. We quote round lots at depot and on levee: Extra fancy $5 00@5 15; fancy $4 75@4 90; choice $4 60@4 80; family $4 20@4 40; xxx $3 85@4 05; xx $3 20@3 50; x $3 00@3 20; superfine $2 80@3 00; fine $2 30@2 60; favorite brands 25c higher; patents $5 75@6 50.

Cornmeal—Slow at $3 10@3 15 on orders; grit, pearl meal and hominy $4 85@4 90.

Rye Flour—Scarce at $4 25@4 40 del. as to quality.

Wheat—Receipts 19,454 sks, 61,400 bu; lower. Grades moved actively at the decline, as rail and river shippers bought freely, though looking mainly for No. 2 red; city millers showed an increased inquiry, taking the lower grades chiefly. Futures were weak and depressed by reports of declining markets at other points and a pressure to sell on the part of the shorts here; from the lowest points there was some recovery, but the close was at declines of ⅝ for September, November and December, ½c for October and ⅜c for year; No 1 red 95¾ in E.; No. 2 red cash 94¾@⅞ regular, 95 E. s.; September 95 to 94⅛, closing at 94¾; October 93⅞ to 93⅝, closing at 93⅞; November 94⅞ to 94⅛ to 93⅞, closing at 94⅛; December 95 to 94⅛, closing at 94⅜; year 93⅞ to 93⅝; January 95⅛ to 95⅜; No. 3 red 86@⅞ t. s., 87⅛@⅜ E. s.; No. 4 82 St. L., C. and E.; rejected 79 in St. L.; No. 2 Mediterranean 94⅜@⅞ t. s., 96@95½ E. s.; No. 3 do 88@⅞ t. s., 87½ E. s.

Corn—Receipts 480 sks, 6,550 bu. Lower. Cash grades dropped heavily in price, with anxious sellers, but a shipping demand developed for No. 2 mixed that steadied it, though other grades were hard to sell. Futures showed great weakness and depression, near by options losing most in price in sympathy with cash, but the others had heavy sellers, though free buyers also, the latter being mainly shorts who were covering previous sales; closed 3⅛c lower for Sept., 2⅛c for Oct., ⅜@½c for Nov., ⅜@⅝c year, ⅝c for Jan. and 1c for May than at close of yesterday. No. 2 mixed cash 61@60½; Sept. 60⅞ to 60; Oct. 60 to 58⅞, closing 59⅛; Nov. 55 to 54, closing 54⅞@⅞; Dec. 51 asked, 50⅛ bid; year 50⅛ to 50c, closing 50⅛; Jan. 56⅛ bid; May 48⅛ to 47⅞, closing 48; No. 2 white-mixed 62@60½; rejected do 57 bid; rejected 58 bid E. s.

Oats—Receipts 2,456 sks, 4,500 bu. The market started in weak, but subsequently such strength was shown by cash that the feeling became better all through, the close being ⅛c higher for Sept., ⅛c for Nov. and 1-16c for year, unchanged for Dec. and ⅛c lower for Oct., as compared with yesterday's close. Cash grades were in shipping and local demand, the principal call coming for No. 2, which ruled firm, but rejected was quiet; offerings scarce; No. 2 cash 32⅛@32 in C., 32⅛ in E., 32⅛ in D. and A., 32⅞@33 in St. L.; September 30⅞ to 31⅛; October 30 to 30⅛; Nov. 30 to 30⅛, and 30⅛ bid later; December 30 bid; year 29⅞ to 29⅝, closing at 29⅝@⅞; rejected 31 in E., 31⅛ in St. L.; no grade 27 bid.

Rye—Receipts 122 sks, 550 bu. Lower to sell and slow, as sellers were not inclined to give way; No. 2 sold in C. at 59 and rejected in C. and St. L. at 58.

Hay—Receipts 490 tons. Steady, with a continued good demand for choice, but lower grades slow. This side—Prairie $7 for common, $8@8 50 for prime, $9@9 50 for choice; mixed at $13 for poor to choice; timothy $12 50 for prime, $15 50@16 for choice; East track—Mixed $9; timothy $13 for prime, $14@14 50 for choice.

Millfeed firmer. A lot of 50 cars sacked bran sold f. o. b. E. track, to fill an urgent Eastern order, at 75c, but other sales over there were at 71c and this side at 70c.

Provisions—Receipts 26,000 lbs hams, 351,600 lbs meats, 270,240 lbs lard. Weaker still, but hardly at the point expressed by one party, who said it was "busted." This term could have well been applied to pork, which was offered at $20 50 for cash and September, with $20 the best bid for the former; January was offered at $18 70, bid $18 30. A lot of spot sold, but terms were kept "intensely" private—worth about $20 20. The main holder of dry salt quoted loose shoulders at 10, long clear and clear ribs at $13 60 and short clear at 14.10, but it was a sure thing that none sold at these rates; some boxed long clear and clear ribs brought 13⅞ and short clear 14⅞. Bacon was best sustained in price, as holders were pretty firm, and packed clear ribs sold at 14⅞, and short clear at 15⅞, though these were extreme prices. Hams range from 15@16½; orders ⅛c higher. Tallow 8@⅛c for prime country in oil brls; irregular pkgs and falling off lots 7⅛@⅞; grease tallow 7@7⅛. Breakfast bacon 16@18. Grease 5⅛@6 for brown, 6⅛@7⅛c yellow, 7⅛@8⅛c for white. Beef—Extra mess $13 00@17 per brl, according to brand; $8@9 per half brl; dried 13@16c; strictly choice 17c per pound. Fresh smoked tongues $4 75@5 per doz. Salt—Lake $1 15@20 per brl. Ground alum $1 05 per sack.

Highwines steady, with sales of 190 brls at $1 19; Cincinnati $1 17; Chicago $1 20; Peoria $1 18.

Lead—Sales of refined are reported at steady rate, $4 75, and considerable said to be doing; hard firm at $4 70. Spelter dull at $5.

Flaxseed—Lower, dull and weak. Sales of spot were at $1 17½ this side and $1 19 to $1 17½ E. side, latter sale late.

Grass Seed—Timothy dull at $2; others nominal; German millet 86@90; common do and Hungarian 50; clover $4 75@4 90.

Closing Prices—3 P. M.

Leaf Tobacco.

The market continues without any material change. The bidding was spirited, and it was not certainly the fault of the buyers that more tobacco was not sold, as the prices offered were, generally speaking, well up to the value of the tobacco on sale. Warehousemen, who are the principal receivers and sellers in this market, don't seem inclined to do their business openly, but prefer to sell everything in a private way, while the commission merchants put up their tobacco and sell it to the highest bidder—every package changing hand, this morning being sold by commission men. Of the 39 hhds and 6 boxes offered only 6 boxes and 4 hhds were sold: 1 box inferior Burley lugs at $3 80; 2 boxes and 1 hhd do do at $4 10@4 90; 3 boxes and 1 hhd common to good do at $5 20@5 90; 1 hhd at $6 10; 1 common leaf at $7. Bids were rejected on 35 hhds—1 at $3 10; 5 at $4 30@4 80; 5 at $5@5 80; 2 at $6@6 70; 1 at $7 25; 7 at $8@8 75; 2 at $9 25; 1 at $10 75; 2 at $11 25@50; 1 pt $14 50; 2 at $15 60@15 75; 1 at $16; 5 Va. wrappers at $30@40. For old style tobacco and heavy-bodied lugs there is a good demand and the offerings are light.

We quote: Old style—Common dark lugs $5 00@5 50; common leaf $6 50@7; medium to good $7 50@8 50; choice none offering. Burley—Common lugs $5 00@5 50; good $6@6 50; common leaf $7 00@8 00; medium do $8 50@11; good $12@14; choice do $15@20. Wrapping leaf—Common $10@12; medium half bright $15@$18; medium bright and mahogany $20@25; good do $25@35; fine bright $40@65. Inferior, unsound and light weight hhds about 25@50c per 100 lbs less.

LIVE STOCK.

Receipts and shipments for 24 hours ending at 11 a. m. to-day:

	Receipts.		Shipments.
	1882.	1881.	1882.	1881.
Cattle	1,448	1,693	742	432
Hogs	551	3,658	729	2,024
Sheep	1,390	227	150	278

CATTLE—There was a fair market this morning. The moderate offerings consisted mainly of ordinary butcher stock which sold evenly at steady prices. There was a fair inquiry for this kind of stuff, and a little more than what was offered could have found sale. Local speculators and interior shippers were the leading operators, although a couple of slop feeders were around and took some native cows and heifers, and for which they paid what may be considered fair figures. Shipping demand very light with no offerings whatever. Stock and feeding steers scarce and dull. Milch cows with calves slow. Ruling quotations quiet.

HOGS—But few hogs offered and the quality not very good. A couple of local butchers, a packer—C. L. Rose—and some shippers were on hand, but none of them could show what they could do. However, it is doubtful if they would do much even if they had a chance. Shipping pigs and light Yorkers $7 50@8; Yorkers $8 10@8 40; butcher Yorkers $8 50@7 60; packing $8 25@8 90; butchers and select $8 65@9 25; culls $6 50@7 50.

SHEEP—There is no change of any consequence to note. Supply moderate. Demand fair for decent grades. Spring lambs scarce. Common to medium $3@3 50; fair to good $3 50@3 75; good to prime $3 90@4 25; fancy $4 25@4 60; stock sheep $2 25@3; Texan sheep $2 75@4 00.

Horses and Mules.

There is a very good demand for all grades of horses; supply fair. Mules slow.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK, September 12.—Flour—Receipts 24,000 brls; sales 12,000; dull and in buyers' favor. Wheat opened ⅛@⅜ higher, but subsequently lost advance, with fair speculative trading. No. 1 white $1 16; sales 56,000 bu No. 2 red September at $1 07@1 08; 280,000 bu October at $1 08⅛@1 09; 200,000 bu November at $1 10⅛@1 10⅛; 96,000 bu December at $1 11⅛@1 12⅛; 24,000 bu year at $1 07⅛; 24,000 bu January at $1 13⅛. Corn opened ⅛@⅛ better; afterwards lost advance and declined ⅛@1; mixed Western spot 70@73½; futures 59@74; sales 820,000 bu. Oats a shade better; Western 35@46; sales 510,000 bu, including No. 2 September at 37⅛@38⅛; October 38⅛@39⅛; November 38⅛@38⅛; year 37⅛@37⅛. Beef unchanged. Pork dull and weak; new $21 50. A HORRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

An Aged Woman Criminally Assaulted by Three Men

Within a Hundred Feet of Lucas Market Last Evening.

About 8 o'clock last night a criminal assault was perpetrated on an old lady named Mrs. Murphy on Twelfth street within 100 feet of the stream of pedestrians that poured down Olive street. The victim was walking south from Washington avenue, when she was seized by a powerfully built man and dragged into the office of David Hyde's wood and coal yard where two accomplices stood in waiting. The horrible experience was detailed to a reporter to-day by the old lady, who is almost prostrated with a nervous attack consequent on the brutal treatment she received. "I had gone over to Washington avenue," said she, "but feeling unwell I started back home. I walked at a rather rapid rate. I saw no one on the block, but could see a number of people walking up and down Olive street. Just as I reached a point about the middle of the block, which is rather poorly lighted, I saw a man jump out from the line of buildings. My heart was in my mouth and I was almost prostrated with fear. Before I could move he seized me by the arm with one hand and throttled me with the other. He then dragged me towards the house. The door was already open. I could make no resistance, and he forced me in, slamming the door after he entered. Two other men whose outlines I could barely stood opposite the door. I could not see what kind of a room I was in or what the furniture was. I think it was a feed store. One of the men who was already in the room caught hold of my hat and tore it from my head. The third stood back and remonstrated with the other two. I recollect he said: 'Do not tear the woman's hat.' Just then one of the others struck me a heavy blow in the face. His hand was hard and rough. This blow partially stunned me and I fell to the floor, bruising one side of my body, which is very sore now. Two of the men abused me, but the third stood back. When I recovered consciousness one of them in hurrying to one side of the room where the other two were stepped on me. I said, 'That horse is stepping on me.' I thought then I was in a stable, but the men laughed. After a short conversation they disappeared, leaving me

DISTINGUISH IN THE GLOOM,

ALONE IN THE DARKNESS.

I ran to the door through which I thought they had left, but I could not find it. I then ran to a door on the other side, but it was closed and locked. I then saw a small square window about four feet from the ground. I threw myself against this with all my force and drove the sash and glass out to the side-walk. I then dropped to the pavement and a few minutes later met a police officer, to whom I told this story, and he returned and procured a light, but I could not find my hat. I don't know whether I could identify the men or not."

Mrs. Murphy is a woman nearly fifty years of age, and is living with a son and daughter. Her husband and oldest son are living in Indiana. Mr. David Hyde, the proprietor of the wood yard, was seen, but said he could offer no explanation of the crime. He had been at his office about 7:30 o'clock, and, after arranging his accounts for the day, had locked the office. The first he knew of the above matter was when he went to his place this morning and found the window broken. The wooden wedge which held a sliding window on the north side in place was found on the floor. From this he inferred that an entrance had been effected through this window. Missouri Park, at Thirteenth and Olive streets, is infested with tramps, who, when driven from the benches, take refuge in the wagon sheds and yards in the vicinity of Lucas Market. It is probable that the assault on Mrs. Murphy was perpetrated by a gang of tramps who have frequently been found sleeping in the wood and coal sheds used by Mr. Hyde. The case was given to Detectives Desmond and Browning, who made an investigation of the premises and obtained as good descriptions of the men as possible.

IRON AND STEEL.

Great Convention To-Day in Defense of the Protective Tariff.

CRESSON SPRINGS, PA., September 12.—The National Convention of Iron and Steel Manufacturers and Iron Ore Producers, called for the purpose of considering the whole question of duties on iron ore, iron and steel, and their various forms and tin plate, and to adopt a schedule of duties thereon, to be submitted to the Tariff Commission for its consideration, met here at 12:30 this afternoon. The convention is the largest representation of the iron and steel interests that has ever assembled in this country and promises to be very harmonious. The meeting was called to order by Hon. D. J. Merril of Johnston, Pa. James M. Swank, Philadelphia, secretary of the American Iron Steel Association, read the call for the Convention. Election for permanent officers resulted as follows: President, James Park, Jr., Pittsburg; vice-presidents, A. F. Keating, Pittsburg; Oliver Williams, Catausauqua, Pa.; Hon. C. D. Hubbard, Wheeling, W. Va.; A. L. Crawford, Terre Haute; John Stambaugh, Youngstown, O.; E. A. Hitchcock, St. Louis; Samuel L. Mather, Cleveland, Ohio; James McCutcheon, Pittsburg; Fayette Brown, Cleveland; W. E. C. Coxe, Reading, Pa.; Andrew Carnegie, New York; W. D. Wood, McKeesport; David Reese, Philadelphia; K. E. Blankenship, Richmond, Va.; W. H. Wallace, Steubenville, O.; W. Potter, Chicago; Philip S. Woen, Worcester, Mass.; T. H. Cowley, Philadelphia, and Hon. Arbhioald McCallister, Blair county, Pa. Secretaries, James M. Swank, Philadelphia; Joseph D. Weeks, Pittsburg; Geo. W. Cope, Philadelphia; Henry Whiteley, Northeast Maryland. The appointments of the organization having been effected the roll was called and showed a full representation of the interests of iron-ore, steel-plate and sheet-bar iron and rails, forge and bloomer and hoop iron. Mr. Merrell, in calling the convention to order, asserted that there was no intention in creating the Tariff Committee to weaken the barriers which had shielded and developed our industries, and thus made the nation great. Our Government, he said, is protectionist, the country is protectionist, and through the wise action of the President, the Government and the people are rightly represented in this respect by the Tariff Committee. After commenting upon the futile efforts of English free-traders and eulogizing the results of the protective policy, he declared that this policy would be continued so long as the workingman of this country insists upon a higher scale of living for himself and his family than his European brother has ever dreamed of. He regarded the work of the Tariff Committee as one of great difficulty, but of supreme importance in remedying erroneous interpretations of the tariff laws, by which the iron and steel trade had been seriously injured. The manufacturers, as business men, had been obliged to accommodate themselves to the situation, while protesting against it, but they believed protection to be alike beneficial to them as producers and consumers. They have sought to improve the present opportunity to so amend the tariff laws as to secure uniformity and fairness in the duties. In his opinion the only way to obtain a cheap and stable price, an adequate supply of iron ore, pig iron, cotton ties, steel blooms or any other article of steel or iron, was by the maintenance of fairly protective duty upon the competing product of foreign manufacture. [Applause.] After organization the convention divided into sections, each representing a district branch of iron and steel manufacturers' production, who were appointed to consider and report what duties should be proposed upon that branch. The proposed duties, as reported, are to constitute a uniform schedule, and when amended and approved by the convention are to be transmitted to the Tariff Commission.

DIRECT TRADE.

We employ no traveling salesmen. After doing business for over forty years on the system in vogue with other wholesale grocers, we abandoned it, and during the past four years have, without drumming, much more than doubled our sales, and have increased the number of our customers from 800 to 3,500. The cost of selling groceries through travelers is 2 1-2 per cent. We avoid this expense, and can thereby sell goods at a smaller margin. Carrying the largest assortment of Staple and Fancy Groceries to be found in the Southwest, and occupying the largest wholesale grocery house in the United States, we have the ability and the disposition to offer every inducement to Country Merchants for their

Editor Post-Dispatch:

Some time since we put an advertisement in your paper soliciting persons who had money to invest to build moderate-sized houses on the line of the Benton-Bellefontaine Railroad, in the vicinity of the Water Tower. The consequence was that a large number of persons looked at the property and bought lots and built houses to live in themselves. This is all very well. But there is a large demand for houses for rent, not a vacant dwelling-house in that section, and hundreds would be taken at good rents as soon as the plans were made and the foundation laid. Publish this three times a week until ordered out.

HIRSUTE.

Whiskers, Beards, Mustaches and Their Modes.

How the Fashions Vary—How They Should be Worn to Agree With the Expression.

The knife-blade mustache, at present so popular with the keep-up-with-the-times young man, originated in the philosophic mind of one of St. Louis' leading tonsorial artists. For almost forty years he has wielded the razor in studious mood, originating and introducing many styles of cut and curl which yet remain in favor. During the height of last winter's society season, which, it will be remembered, resulted in a number of weddings, this sable Arkwright received so many orders for waxing mustaches out of the way of the lips, after the fashion adopted by Moliere and Peter the Great, that to meet the wants of patrons whose features were unsuited for such dressing he began experimenting for a new method, and the recently introduced was the result. The hair is parted in the middle and brushed out in a straight line, bringing the ends to a flat point, which may be tipped with French wax if the hair is not pliable. An improvement in heretofore lusterless beards in being effected this season by the use of Brilliantine, a preparation which, though known in Paris the last twenty years, has but lately been introduced in this country, notwithstanding the United States has the reputation of excelling all Europe in the tonsorial art, with the single exception of an establishment in Vienna.

THE CUT IN WHISKERS

has finally fallen into line with the Administration, and before the winter is over there will be a marked increase of the Arthur or English side-whisker. Public men as a rule, retain their characteristic style, and others who have scars or defects to guard or hide also make no change. Chin whiskers are trimmed rounding and even with the corners of the mouth. An imperial should not be over three-fourths of an inch in width.

Professional men indicate a preference for the closely clipped mustache, as do the business men for full flowing beard. Gens. Grant and Sherman are exponents of the veteran army style, short beerd almost covering the face.

DYEING IS OBSOLETE,

except in cases where the hair is streaked, when a brush is used to touch up the inharmonious spots. Gray or white hair is as popular with the sex as it now is with women.

If it be true that whiskers exert a moral influence on society, no better proof of St. Louis' good character can be necessary than to walk a half dozen squares on any of the business streets during working hours. Two-thirds of the men thus met or overtaken will be more or less bearded, either square, round, aureole, fan-shaped, swallow-tail, artichoke leaf or wedge-shaped. With a few smooth-face exceptions the remaining third will be mustached. It is apparent, too, that the majority of these men have allowed the beard to grow without a thought of how it may affect their expression. The mild man bristles like a Corsair; the noisy fellow has a limp, corn-colored beard after the style of vacillating Judas; the chubby man makes the blunder of a close-cropped chin whisker, and the slim-faced persists in elongating his features with a Vandyke fringe. Hirsute artists claim that if they were permitted to exercise individual judgment in trimming their customers' faces we would have a better looking class of men, as the defects of physiognomy could be largely corrected by a judicious and intelligent treatment of the beard. Every touch of the comb and brush should harmonize with the person's expression, and the much-exhibited must be sacrificed in every case where the chin is otherwise faulty. In event of coarse lips or bad teeth the Bismarck mustache is desirable. Aggressive chins which have a tip-tilted beard like the representations of Egyptian deities would best try the Disraeli beard—a thick growth under the chin. Where cheeks are hollow or ridged a small side-whisker is grown just in front of each ear, as in the case of Gladstone and Bright, though theirs are not thin faces. This style of whisker is much affected by the English clergy, statesmen and litterateurs. Artists, musicians, Catholic prelates and public speakers are generally smooth-faced, as the latter, especially, depend greatly on facial expression for holding an audience's attention. Apallo and Mercury were the only mythological deities represented without beards.

Unusual care was taken by the British of 200 years ago in the treatment of their beards even to the extent of wearing pasteboard covers at night that their cherished badges of dignity might not be rumpled.

Since Benjamin Franklin appeared at the court of Louis XVI. wearing his own head of hair, and that unpowdered, wigs have belonged only to history, and it is a curious circumstance which is not generally appreciated, that

THE WIG IS A WOMAN'S INVENTION.

It was 1263 B. C. when, to save David from Saul's vengeance, Michal sent her husband away and placed on his pillow in the bed a log of wood which was covered at the upper end with a piece of black-haired goat skin. Her father's men were deceived by the plea that David was ill and must not be disturbed, and the giant-slayer escaped.

Half-shingled hair is the fashionable cut for fall—that is, to leave the hair from one to two inches long and slope it up to the crown. The part remains a little to the left of center, and there are no indications of a revival of the middle part, although the side part is becoming fashionable with the other sex in England.

RUPTURE.

SINCE the establishment of the Vienna Institute for the cure of Rupture in this city, persons from every State in the Union have resorted to it for relief, many of whom had been ruptured 30 to 40 years, and from long-continued use of ill-fitting trusses and depressing effects, caused by rupture, had become the victims of kidney diseases, bowel troubles, rheumatism, back-ache, loss of memory and many other diseases caused by rupture. In every case where it was possible to return the bowels complete relief was given and the patient enabled to resume his occupation free from pain or danger of a recurrence of the rupture.

Dr. Flanders, 901 Olive, one of our leading physicians, says: "I have examined persons cured of rupture by Dr. Smythe His cures are genuine and his method a success."

Dr. Harder, 1014 Brooklyn street, says: "Dr. Smythe's method of treating Rupture is all that he claims for it."

Dr. Field, Fourteenth and Lucas avenue, professor of surgery in one of our medical colleges, says: "I regard Dr. Smythe's method of treating Rupture as a God-send to the ruptured."

We refer to the following gentlemen in this city cured of Rupture of long standing. They have all been examined by able physicians, who pronounce them cured: John Buehler, 1011 Cass avenue, ruptured 25 years; M. Kern, 3143 Vineyard street, 30 years; George Lay, Carondelet, 19 years; Jacob Eyler, Carondelet, 7 years; P. Delany, watchman Henry Ames & Co.; Wm. Raulkotter, 1608 Montgomery street, 6 years, and hundreds of others in this city, that can be seen at any time. Our method of treating Rupture does not interfere with one's occupation or habits of life. Persons from the country can be treated and return same day, except in extreme cases.

DR. SMYTHE'S Book containing testimonials of persons cured, opinions of the medical profession, comments of the press, etc., will be sent to any address upon receipt of 10 cents. If you are ruptured you should read it. Address

F. T. SMYTHE, M. D.,
President Vienna Institute, 1113 Washington avenue, St. Louis.

If there is any one thing more than another about which the average man is particular, it is the style of his Throat Harness.

It requires both skill and taste to meet the demands of the public in this direction, and but few houses make a success of catering to the wants of the multitude.

We challenge any Furnishing Store, East or West, to display a more varied, elegant and extensive stock of choice Neckgear than we now exhibit. The very cream has been skimmed from the market, and the result is a beautiful array of choice fabrics fashioned into elegant shapes that delight the eyes and gratify the taste.

☞ By reason of the taste displayed, the magnitude of the stock shown, and the unconquerable determination to always be at the front, we sincerely claim, and are entitled to be considered the HEADQUARTERS for Gents' Neckwear in St. Louis.

Montesano Springs.

Special Announcement, Sept. 1, 1882.

The most beautiful season of the year at Montesano is from the present time to the first of November. The air is delicious, the shade is restful, the walks and rambles are delightful, and the autumn tints become gorgeous. During this season the mineral waters are most effective, because there is less loss by perspiration. Bright, open wood fires are cheerful as the mornings and nights grow cool. The services of Mr. D. C. Siegrist, as manager, have terminated. The Hotel, which is as fine as that of any watering place in the country, will be managed by the Board of Directors, much like the University Club, with such subordinate service as will insure the ease and comfort of guests.

RATES—$2 50 per day; $14 single week; from $8 00 to $14 00 per week, according to time and location. Gentlemen with their wives can board at the Springs, run into the city for business daily, and enjoy the country with first-class accommodations, as cheaply as they can obtain the same class of board in the city.
